

Gaglardi Ignoring Law Truck Owners Charge

Millions Lost In Violations

Highways Minister P. A. Gaglardi today was accused by the Construction Equipment Owners Association of "above the law" acting.

In a letter to Premier Bennett, association president William G. McKinnon charged that irregularities in highways department contracts have cost the provincial treasury millions of dollars in lost revenue.

Mr. McKinnon said for three years the association has persistently complained to Mr. Gaglardi about tax, licence, gas and weight violations on construction jobs.

Nothing has been done, said Mr. McKinnon. The letter, documented with special reports on a number of projects, said that on 53 jobs checked by the association in May, there were 549 such violations involving 469 trucks.

"We have found that law enforcement in this province, as far as regulating trucks and the construction industry is concerned, is practically nonexistent," said the letter.

It said the laws are continually abused not only by contractors, but by highways department engineers, superintendents and foremen.

"This situation has got so bad, that some of them actually think as long as they are working for the minister of highways, that they are above the law," said Mr. McKinnon's letter.

ENTIRE BLAME It said that at a meeting with association representatives in Victoria May 15 Mr. Gaglardi "placed the entire blame on his engineers for the violations and promised he would investigate if we would forward to him the necessary information."

The information was forwarded May 23. On the 53 jobs checked in a 13,000-mile survey, there were 116 motor carrier violations, said the letter.

There were 255 gross vehicle weight violations; 74 trucks using gas marked illegally; 49 trucks suspected of using marked gas; 26 trucks with no licence plates; 29 pieces of equipment without proper lighting.

JAPAN WON'T HARBOR U.S. ATOMIC SUBS

TOKYO (AP)—Japan has rejected a United States request for opening Japanese ports to U.S. atomic submarines because of Japanese fears of radioactivity, Defense Director Senuke Fujieda disclosed today.

Fujieda told a parliamentary committee the proposal was made by State Secretary Dean Rusk to Foreign Minister Zenro Kase, last June when the latter accompanied Premier Hayato Ikeda to Washington.

Fujieda also reaffirmed the government's avowed policy of refusing introduction of American nuclear weapons into Japan and of not arming Japan's own defence forces with such weapons.

RASMINSKY:

'Cabinet Above Bank'

OTTAWA (CP)—Louis Rasminsky, newly-appointed governor of the Bank of Canada, said today that if there is serious conflict between the bank and the government over monetary policy the government's will should prevail.

Mr. Rasminsky said in a statement that in the ordinary course of events the bank has the responsibility for monetary policy. But if the government disapproved of the monetary policy being carried out by the bank "it has the right and the responsibility to direct the bank as to the policy which the bank is to carry out."

Finance Minister Fleming said in a companion statement with Mr. Rasminsky on this point, and that the new governor's views were known before he was appointed.

MUST CONSULT

Mr. Fleming stressed the importance of regular and close consultation between the governor and the finance minister and added that such consultation "is already taking place."

The two statements obviously were designed to clear the air following the sizzling controversy that ended with the resignation of James E. Coyne as governor after an unsuccessful government attempt to have Parliament fire him.

They also provided a clear indication that both the government and Mr. Rasminsky want legislation to re-define the relationship between the central bank and the cabinet—if only to avoid another controversy in the future.

This undoubtedly will be studied by the royal commission on Canada's financial structure and institutions. The commission was forecast in Mr. Fleming's June 20 budget.

SESSION OPENS

'Iron Curtain' Parts Today

By FRANK RUTTER
Times Legislative Reporter

The Social Credit government was expected to unwrap a "surprise package" at the special session of the legislature which started this afternoon.

Despite an iron curtain of secrecy drawn by Premier Bennett, hints leaked out this morning.

The surprise, said informed sources, would either be taking over the B.C. Electric, as exclusively forecast in the Times, or something equally "big."

The cloak-and-dagger atmosphere at the opening ceremony at 3 p.m. was mingled with a festive air.

Three hundred Social Credit supporters gathered at the Empress Hotel at noon for a birthday party celebrating the ninth anniversary of the government's rise to power.

They appeared to be celebrating more than a birthday, however.

The premier, who went to the party, refused the traditional pre-release of the speech from the throne to the press, and he also refused to talk to reporters.

HYDRO POWER

Nobody outside the cabinet, not even the Social Credit MLAs, knew earlier today what move the government plans on hydro power.

Another surprise was cancellation of the Social Credit MLAs' caucus, originally scheduled for this morning.

Party whip Bert Price said no meeting was planned before the session started.

"The cabinet has kept its secret very well, hasn't it?" he said.

"It is going straight from the cabinet to the people."

He did not elaborate on what "it" might be, but his remarks heightened speculation that announcement of a power takeover is being withheld until the very last minute to prevent disruption of the stock market.

Mr. Price, the Social Credit MLA for Vancouver-Burrard, said only that whatever the surprise is, the announcement was being delayed "to be fair to everybody."

Some Secret MLAs are known to be opposed to taking over B.C. Electric, and one report is that they would prefer the government to test public opinion first by taking the issue to the polls.

REPORTS TO KENNEDY

McClay reported back to President Kennedy Monday night, delivering a personal message from the Soviet leader.

The McClay talks with Khrushchev and with Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Valerian Zorin at Moscow also appear to have improved slightly the prospects for resumption of disarmament negotiations.

American informants said Russian-American discussions on how to get negotiations started again likely will be reopened in New York in a few weeks after the United States consults with other Western powers.

Bid to Force UN Session

UNITED NATIONS (AP)—Asian and African delegates worked today to get the backing of 50 United Nations members for an emergency session of the General Assembly Thursday to take up Tunisia's charge of French aggression at Bizerte.

Kenneth K. S. Dadzie of Ghana, chairman of the group seeking the session, said he had collected signatures of 21 delegations on a request to Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjöld and hoped to get the other 29 by Wednesday. Hammarskjöld must call the session if a majority of the 99 UN members request it.

B.C. UNION MEN BEAT BILL 42

'Isn't That Amazing... A Convention On, Too!'

1,703 ATTEND FOUNDING

OTTAWA (CP)—There were 1,703 voting delegates registered at the New Party founding convention today as the five-day convention swung into its second day.

Voting delegates included 714 representing the CCF party, 659 from trade unions and the remainder from New Party clubs and the provincial and federal executives.

RCAF Denies Substandard Drugs Bought

OTTAWA (CP)—The air force today described as "absolutely false" a claim that it has purchased substandard drugs for the Comox RCAF base on Vancouver Island.

It was commenting on a statement made Monday by the British Columbia Pharmaceutical Association at a one-day hearing in Vancouver of the restrictive trade practices commission which is studying the manufacture, distribution and sale of drugs in Canada.

Douglas Denholm, registrar of the association, read at the hearing 1959 correspondence between the association and FO V. F. Bamber, pharmacist at the RCAF base at Comox. FO Bamber listed more than half a page of drugs he alleged were substandard.

The air force said that "no substandard" drugs were bought.

It said the air force purchases drugs by their generic names in large lots. By buying in large volume, major savings were made.

However, the air force said that all drugs it purchases are subject to rigid inspection by the tri-service medical establishment.

By TOM GOULD
(Times Ottawa Bureau)

OTTAWA—British Columbia trade union delegates to the New Party founding convention have thumbed their noses at Premier Bennett's law prohibiting unions from spending dues money for political purposes.

The effect of the law would have been to stop any B.C. union delegates from attending the convention, unless they wanted to pay their own expenses.

Union members decided they had to hold a conference in Ottawa, by the sheerest coincidence at the same time as the New Party convention. The subject of the conference, Premier Bennett's laws governing the spending of union dues for political purposes.

The meeting was held Sunday, in the Chateau Laurier, Officers of the Canadian Labor Congress attended, and B.C.'s Bill 42 got a working over. The conference decided to attack the law from every front, including a publicity campaign throughout B.C.

In the course of the conference, the union men discovered, by another incredible coincidence, that none of them was able to get aircraft or rail reservations for the trip home.

At this point, one of the CLC officials remembered that a political convention, the New Party convention, to be exact, was going to be held in Ottawa this week.

He suggested that since the trade unionists were in Ottawa, and couldn't get home, they might be interested in dropping down to the Coliseum.

To a man they agreed it was a good idea. An International Woodworkers of America delegate disclosed still another coincidence: Every one of the union members attending the conference on Bill 42 was also the man picked by his local to attend the New Party convention, that is, if they had been able to attend the convention.

'Federal' Canada Supported by NP

OTTAWA (CP)—The New Party founding convention gave roaring approval today to a Quebec-sponsored motion to emphasize the federal character of Canada.

The motion, moved by Michel Chartrand, leader of the Social Democratic Party—the Quebec wing of the CCF—instructed the constitution committee to replace the word "national" with "federal" wherever it appeared in the New Party constitution.

Under it, he said, national conventions would be known as federal conventions—giving in the French language a truer interpretation of the nature of Canada's constitutional setup.

The motion provoked heated argument, most of it on Mr. Chartrand's side, and brought CCF National Leader Hazen Argue, one of the contenders for New Party leadership, to his feet.

Mr. Argue appealed for unanimous support for Mr. Chartrand, and for the first time since the convention opened Monday, cheers as well as applause greeted the CCF leader's speech.

DEADLY AMMONIA GAS EMPTIES FOUR TOWNS

CREVE COEUR, Ill. (UPI)—More than 10,000 residents of four Illinois towns fled their homes before dawn today to escape deadly ammonia fumes pouring from a river barge.

Twenty persons, most of them, firemen who tried to stop the flow of gas from a ruptured pipeline aboard the barge, were hospitalized. Four others were treated and released from hospitals in nearby Peoria.

Roads leading from Creve Coeur, Bartonville, North Pekin and Marquette Heights were jammed with cars in the pre-dawn darkness.

Police, civil defence workers and volunteers went through the towns house by house to rouse sleeping families and warn them to flee. Sirens wailed and radio stations broadcast evacuation orders.

Half of Creve Coeur's 5,300 population and practically all of the 8,000 Bartonville and 2,000 North Pekin residents fled their homes. Nearly the entire 2,500 population of Marquette Heights joined the exodus, although town officials admitted afterward they had intended to evacuate only a few residents.

Police, firemen, and volunteers, with wet handkerchiefs and towels wrapped across their faces, patrolled deserted streets and roads to prevent looting in a 12-square-mile area for three to five hours until residents returned.

At the barge, on the Illinois River, power to the ammonia pump was shut off. But the gas continued to leak out through the compressor. Most of the ammonia in a 300,000-pound tank escaped and was carried southward on a seven-mile-an-hour breeze.

Cars lined country roads around the area. Motorists sat on hoods and fenders listening to reports on car radios. Other cars filled supermarket parking lots in nearby towns. Some cars were reported to have driven as far as Galesburg, 55 miles away.

Mayor Chester Polson of Bartonville said his town was emptied in about 45 minutes. There was virtually nobody left in town, he said.

People and Things

(Times News Services)

LONDON—A man who conducted a survey of behavior of Britain's crowded highways has announced his findings: "Most women are unfit to drive cars."

Denis Holmes, fresh from a three-month investigation of female driving habits, said ladies at the wheel have now reached an all-time low in motoring standards.

"I state this," Holmes said, "with every fear of contradiction."

He accused women drivers of "either progressing at a snail's pace or over-confidently weaving through the traffic in slapdash fashion."

Holmes, who writes for the London Daily Mail, tackled his survey in a courageous way—he followed 110 women motorists for at least two miles each. "Terrifying" was the word he used to sum up the ordeal.

Of these 110 unsuspecting women drivers, Holmes concluded:

Eighty-four were totally unsafe; 14 were fit to be on the road but only average drivers; eight were good and equal to any man at the wheel; and four were outstanding and better than most men.

One of the tendencies Holmes found irritating among women drivers was what he called lack of concentration. "Their cars are loaded with children, dogs, shopping, flowers—things requiring the utmost attention to the neglect of safety and common sense."

"Rear mirrors, too, have a fatal magnetism and are obviously regarded as a vanity rather than a safety accessory."

He deplored the "aggressive attitude" of many women drivers with their "wild and erratic hand signals."

Best of the bunch, Holmes said, were young girls driving sports cars with "a combination of youthful quick reactions and flexible mechanism."

WASHINGTON—Why does a woman driver make a U-turn on a one-way street? Signal left, then veer right? Creep along at 20 on a 60-mile-an-hour thruway?

"Most women have a mental block about driving," said Janice Nusser, a brown-eyed redhead who knows her way around an automobile wheel.

Miss Nusser, 17, of Garden City, Kan., put 33 male drivers in their places by snaking around barrels, slipping into tight parking spots and handling a car with a feminine finesse that won her the Kansas teen-age safe-driving road.

NORTH BANGOR, N.Y.—Pasha the lioness and Napoleon the tiger became parents Monday of a 20-pound hybrid called a tigron, born in the hay of a dairy farm in this northern New York community.

The owner, Miss Evelyn Currie, claims the offspring is the first male tigron born in the country. She named him Roberto.

Miss Currie, an animal trainer, said "I can't tell what goes on in the jungle, but a thing like this is rare in captivity."

LOS ANGELES—A man stopped by police as a drunken driver got so mad he almost couldn't see. Officers said Monday that Santiago Tarrin, 43, a laborer, first threw his eye-glasses at them. They broke.

Then, said police, he removed his glass eye—the left one—and hurled it at them. They handcuffed him for the trip to jail.

The officers said they recovered the glass eye and booked it along with Tarrin's other property. He was charged with drunken driving.

WOODSTOCK, Ont.—The lonely vigil of Herman the Hermit has been maintained almost four months now. Since early April the German shepherd dog has been living under a wild cherry tree near here, rejecting all attempts to move him.

Once he was taken away to Hamilton, but he broke free and trotted the 50 miles back to his stand on the farm of Victor Cuthbert.

"I can't figure him out," says Mr. Cuthbert. "He's waiting for someone. But who?"

No one seems to know how Herman first arrived under the tree on the gravel road separating East and West Oxford Townships.

"He was just a scrawny pup then," Mr. Cuthbert recalled. "He was bleeding badly about the mouth and looked pretty sick. We figure he was thrown out of a car by someone."

"We tried to get him away from the tree, but he wouldn't budge. So we decided to leave him there and bring his food to him. He's grown to quite a size now."

Inner Europe Nations Agree To U.K. Talks

PARIS (AP) — The six nations of the European Common Market agreed today to open negotiations with the British government for Britain's entry into the economic community.

The decision was made in a brief session of the foreign ministers of the six Common Market nations. They are in Paris for a quarterly meeting of the Western European Union, made up of the six and Britain.

Widespread praise in Britain and on the European continent greeted Prime Minister Macmillan's historic announcement Monday that Britain would seek negotiations "to join the continental economic group."

Most of Britain's national newspapers supported the government's move, but there were warnings that months of difficult negotiations would be necessary to get concessions that would safeguard British sovereignty and the economies of Commonwealth countries which are dependent on the British market.

TO SELL HIS CASE

French President de Gaulle, anxious to make France the leader of a united Europe, was seen as the chief opponent of such concessions. Political informants said Macmillan would fly to Paris soon to try to smooth Britain's entry into the continental group, and the Conservative Daily Mail said the prime minister "will not go cap in hand."

The Mail said Macmillan would tell de Gaulle Britain will reconsider its entire contribution to the defence of Western Europe if the negotiations to join the economic group do not go well. Macmillan, The Mail said, will insist "that the negotiations leave no room for misunderstanding about the consequences of failure."

Most of Britain's partners in the seven-nation European Free Trade Association quickly indicated they would follow the British lead in seeking association or membership in the Common Market.

Denmark announced it would apply for membership. Austria declared its willingness to begin negotiations for a single European trading bloc without necessarily joining the Common Market. Sweden made a similar announcement. Norway's government indicated it favors joining the group, but said the decision is up to the Norwegian Parliament.

SWISS DISPLEASED

Traditionally neutral Switzerland immediately expressed its distaste for the Common Market's developing drive toward political unity. President-Fritz Wahlen said Switzerland "will under no circumstances make any concession with regard to its neutrality and sovereignty."

The seventh EFTA member, Portugal, said nothing. Macmillan's statement caused alarm among the Commonwealth nations who fear British membership in the market would wreck the preferential system that gives special treatment to their exports to Britain.

Australian Prime Minister Robert Menzies said his government wants to present its own case in Macmillan's negotiations with the Common Market countries. He implied doubt Britain would push strongly enough in protecting Australian exports.

New Zealand Prime Minister Keith Holyoake said if Britain were to sign the EEC treaty as it now stands, the results for New Zealand would be disastrous.

$250,000 Given To UBC Hospital

VANCOUVER (CP)—A gift of $250,000 to the University of British Columbia from Mr. and Mrs. P. A. Woodward's Foundation has been announced by President N. A. M. MacKenzie.

The gift, President MacKenzie said, will be used to provide for a bio-medical library in the university hospital which now is in the planning stage.

MANAGED ON RUNWAY of Chico, Calif., airport is desperate would-be-airline passenger, Bruce Britt, who tried to steal ride and shot pilot and ticket agent in process. (AP Wirephoto.)

Two Shot in Try To Seize Plane

CHICO, Calif. (AP) — A construction worker trying to board an airliner without a ticket shot and seriously wounded the ticket agent and the pilot of the plane Monday night, police reported.

The worker, Bruce Britt, 40, of Smackover, Ark., was overpowered by the co-pilot and three passengers and booked on a charge of attempted murder.

Capt. Oscar William Cleal, 42, the pilot, was shot through the head and stomach. Ticket agent Bill Hicks, 45, was shot in the back. Both are in serious condition.

The Pacific Airways DC-3 was just about to taxi down the runway when Britt appeared and leaped from his car in which he had eluded highway patrolmen at speeds of up to 120 miles an hour. He raced for the plane, pursued by Hicks.

Suddenly, witnesses said, he stopped, pulled a revolver from a small overnight bag and shot Hicks.

Then he fired at the plane, jumped in and ran to the pilot's compartment where he put his gun to the head of Captain Cleal.

"Take off or I'll take over," he ordered.

Cleal taxied down the runway. Britt wasn't satisfied.

"Get this plane in the air," he shouted.

Then he fired two shots at the pilot. Co-pilot Allan Wheeler, 29, jumped Britt and wrestled the gun away, but Britt came at him with a knife.

The three passengers then rushed in and helped Wheeler disarm Britt.

Britt told reporters he was trying to get back to Smackover, Ark., in response to a phone call from his wife.

equipment-improperly licensed. "The only prosecutions that we were aware of on the above were seven small truck owners in the Haney area," said the letter.

SALES TAX
The letter says there are also a number of large contractors violating sales tax regulations.

"We can't help wondering if the last three-cent increase in the gasoline tax would have been necessary if everyone paid their fair share of taxes."

The association said that since May 1960 it has sent 28 letters of complaint to Mr. Gagliardi. No action has been taken.

It also has sent a number of statutory declarations about irregularities, and it cited several jobs, including the Hart Highway at Sundance Lake, Kamloops Bridge, and the King George Highway.

It says truckers are being forced by the highways department to carry overweight loads.

COMMON PRACTICE
"Most equipment owners blame the provincial government for the conditions that exist in our industry today, and we believe that this why it has become a common practice to beat the provincial government out of truck licenses, sales tax and gasoline tax revenue."

"If you can eliminate these taxes that are not paid, operating costs can be cut as much as a $1.50 per hour per truck, said the letter."

Mr. Phil Gagliardi's interpretation of free enterprise seems to be that it is anybody's democratic right to starve to death in a democracy if they are stupid enough," it said.

The letter appeals to the premier "to stop this misuser" on three fronts:

1. Increased policing by the Public Utilities Commission with stiffer fines for violators and higher licence rates;
2. Extension of the Commercial Transport department's jurisdiction to all highways in B.C., not just provincial roads, with tougher enforcement;

3. "Stop the minister of highways from interfering with law enforcement agencies." The highway patrol should be moved under the transport department.

"We do not see any necessity for the minister of highways having his own police force," the letter concludes.

During the heat of the Coyne dispute, Mr. Fleming often said that the government had no formal authority to interfere in central bank monetary policy—the protection of the integrity of a country's currency—as long as the bank is responsible directly to Parliament.

Quoting the Bank of Canada Act, Mr. Rasminsky's statement said the central bank must have the independence and responsibility needed "to regulate credit and currency in the best interests of the economic life of the nation."

To do this, the bank would need enough independence and responsibility to be able to withstand day-to-day pressures "from any source."

"But in the longer run, if there should develop a serious and persistent conflict between the views of the government and the views of the central bank with regard to monetary policy which, after prolonged and conscientious efforts on both sides, cannot be resolved, the government should be able formally to instruct the bank what monetary policy it wishes carried out and the bank should have the duty to comply with these instructions."

The government then would take direct responsibility for that policy. If the governor did not feel he could carry out that policy, "his duty would be to resign and to make way for someone who took a different view."

Cost-Plus Drug Plan 'Illegal'

VANCOUVER (CP) — The British Columbia Pharmaceutical Association at one time considered a plan whereby druggists would handle drugs at cost and charge a professional fee for filling prescriptions.

The plan, said Douglas Denholm, registrar of the 1,100-member association, was abandoned when association solicitors expressed the opinion the move would be illegal because it involved goods as well as services.

Mr. Denholm outlined the program during a one-day hearing here held by the Restrictive Trade Practices Commission into the manufacture, distribution and sale of drugs.

The commission ends its cross-Canada hearings at Victoria Thursday.

FEES SMALL

Mr. Denholm, in presenting his association's brief, one of three heard by C. Rhodes Smith, commission chairman and his associates A. S. Whitely and Pierre Carignan, said the fees would have ranged between 75 cents and $1.75 on each prescription.

The association said: "Twenty years ago there were relatively few drugs prepared in final dosage at the manufacturers' level."

"The basic cost of the ingredients was of less significance, while the cost of professional services was a greater proportion of the price to the patient."

"Now the pharmacist dispenses a greater number of prescription items compounded at the manufacturers' level and as a result the cost of the ingredients in relation to the final price has become a greater factor."

"There is an increasing trend for physicians to rely on pharmacists for information on new products. We believe that in the future the physician will come to require to a growing extent this type of service."

NEED SPECIALISTS

The brief outlined other services the pharmacist undertakes for both the doctor and the patient and added that the increasing volume of drugs and dosages being sold in Canada will require considerable specialized training on the part of the pharmacist.

"It is upon these factors... that the pharmacist considers he is entitled to charge a professional fee in dispensing prescription drugs for the patient."

Mr. Denholm said the association has never considered preparing a list of suggested prices for drugs and has never frowned upon or taken disciplinary action against members engaged in price competition.

"Our interest rather has centred on what control procedures have been followed by the manufacturer during the course of production."

SPACE SHIP CAN BOUNCE

BLACKSBURG, Va. (AP)—Space ships that could "skip" off the earth's atmosphere for a second try at landing in case of a re-entry error were forecast today by a U.S. government scientist.

Dr. Eugene S. Love of the Langley research centre of the U.S. civilian space agency said possibilities exist for designing space craft so they could bounce off the earth's atmosphere, like a stone skipping off water, in the event the original return approach from outer space was faulty.

Bringing Up Children 'Vital'

By PETER MURRAY

"The most important thing in the world today is the bringing up of children."

This is the key to most of Dr. Brock Chisholm's writings and lectures.

By the time we become parents, most of us are too fixed in the ways of the past to make the radical change in thinking needed to meet conditions of the modern world.

The only hope lies with the children.

It is our job to recognize where we have gone wrong, and make sure we don't pass on the same mistakes to our children.

During the interview with Dr. Chisholm I was reminded of some lines of a poet on children:

"You may give them your love but not your thoughts.

"For they have their own thoughts."

"You may strive to be like them, but seek not to make them like you.

"For life goes not backward nor tarries with yesterday."

Noble thoughts with which many can agree. But how to translate them into everyday living?

Dr. Chisholm, with his training in psychiatry, as the father of two children, offers some practical advice.

In the first place, we must change our basic approach:

"We shouldn't be concerned with the ways in which our children are problems to us, but rather ask how are we difficult to our children."

Dr. Chisholm said that at a recent conference on juvenile delinquency in New York he was shocked to hear the adults talking about the trouble they were having with children.

"In a monstrous city like New York, with all the pathological influences which adults have created, it is a wonder many children turn out as well as they do," he said.

We are responsible for the conditions which create these problems and we must take the full blame, not try to pass it off on the younger generation.

One of the most important tasks is to give the child a sense of security in relation to the family.

In this regard, Dr. Chisholm believes we get off the track at every beginning, at birth. He is strongly opposed to the modern maternity ward where mother and baby are separated for long periods.

"Babies under glass do not have enough maternal contact," he says.

The baby's first hours in the outside world are a cold and frightening experience and it needs the warmth of its mother's body.

'Psychological Wounds'

In the same way a small child taken to hospital for an illness or operation and left with complete strangers may suffer deep psychological wounds. Mothers should be allowed to stay with their children in hospital.

"In the interests of administrative efficiency, we have made hospitals very dangerous places for children."

Dr. Chisholm sees some progress in the lengthening of visiting hours and in a growing recognition of this problem.

The most vital factor in providing the child with a sense of family security is to give it the feeling that it can always trust and depend on its parents.

Children must always be told the truth. If they discover, as they do more often than we suspect, that their parents have lied to them the psychological effect can be very harmful.

This brings us to Santa

Understanding at Young Age

Dr. Chisholm said a child, from the age of three years onward is capable of understanding the difference between symbol and reality if it is properly explained to him.

Sunday schools are another sensitive area where the child must learn to make this distinction.

"This requires good Sunday school teachers," Dr. Chisholm says, "someone well-informed who won't present symbols as facts."

A child doesn't need religion as such in its formative years, Dr. Chisholm believes, but needs to know about religions.

In this regard, parents should tell their children honestly whether they happen to follow a particular religion simply as an accident of birth.

Teaching Most Important Job

"To be allowed to teach children should be the sign of the final approval of society. It is not a place for half-baked gals waiting to get married. It is the most important job in the community."

Dr. Chisholm says grade school teachers should be paid the highest salaries, to attract the best persons.

On discipline, Dr. Chisholm believes social punishment is better than physical punishment, except in certain situations.

One he cites is that of a family living on a busy highway where it is necessary to teach the child to watch out for traffic. Then a well-aimed slap is sometimes justified—not for the fact the child was because it was the religion of their parents.

"And if a parent has looked into all religions before choosing one, a child is entitled to know that too."

Dr. Chisholm believes comparative religion and basic psychology and sociology—the sciences of living—should be taught in the early school grades.

He is supporter of the so-called "progressive" method of education launched by American philosopher John Dewey and is opposed to the recent Chant royal commission report in B.C. He feels it is an attempt to set the clock back.

The old method of teaching by rote does not stimulate the child to think for himself.

Dr. Chisholm recognizes that the new methods require teachers of the highest possible calibre.

on the road but because it did not look carefully both ways first.

The main concern of discipline should be to teach the child its responsibility to the family and to the community.

"Sometimes the child gets the idea he is being punished just because he is bothering his mother," Dr. Chisholm says.

Dr. Chisholm emphasizes that we can never be casual about what we do, and say to children.

"They are planted like seeds."

Above all, parents should never allow their children to believe they are infallible.

"Mother doesn't always know best."

New York Boy Gangs In Summer Flare-Up

NEW YORK (AP)—Rival youth gangs met in a shooting rumble in a Harlem playground Monday night, while in a Bronx park three teen-agers beat up an elderly man in full view of bench-sitters and strollers.

The three Bronx youths were arrested, and police made 14 arrests in Harlem in these latest incidents of youthful summer violence.

Police said the Harlem dispute started two weeks ago when the Viceroy's gang invaded the playground and forced the Condemners gang out.

Eight Condemners returned in reoccupation move Monday night and were met by eight Viceroy's. As they advanced to ward each other, a gunman on either side began firing.

Police heard the shots and sprinted into the park to make the arrests.

Even at only 30,000 feet, the surfaces of planes flying faster than sound will heat to 300 degrees.

CCFers COMPLAIN

Trade Unions Running Show

By TOM GOULD
(Times Ottawa Bureau)

OTTAWA—The "Douglas-for-Leader" bandwagon rolled merrily along at the New Party founding convention Monday while angry CCFers complained that trade union representatives were running the convention.

The backers of Saskatchewan Premier T. C. (Tommy) Douglas are certain of victory.

Many CCFers, particularly those backing CCF national leader Hazen Argue for the New Party's top post, claim trade union leaders have dictated to their union delegates on several important votes taken on the first day of the convention.

So far, none of these protesting have made their accusations on the floor of the convention. But, at the close of the day's sitting, the corridors were full of bitter, muttering CCFers.

VOTE ISSUED

Biggest issue of the day came when the dissidents tried to change the rules of the convention so they could amend committee reports from the floor. The chairman, George Grube, of Toronto, called for a show of hands, and announced the amendment had carried. After a hurried consultation with officials on the platform, he said a standing vote must be taken.

After much confusion, the chairman announced the amendment had lost. According to witnesses, several union leaders were busy between the two votes, informing their delegates how to vote.

One witness said he saw Joe Morris, of the IWA, pounding a table in disgust when he UNITED NATIONS (AP)—A United Nations subcommittee seeking facts about conditions in Portuguese Angola, formally notified the Security Council Saturday that Portugal refused the group entry.

Portuguese troops are concentrated in Angola against natives conducting raids against settlements in a campaign for independence.

Carlos Salazar of Bolivia, chairman of the subcommittee, reported it still believes its visit to Angola is of the utmost importance.

'Sergeants' Policing Delegates

OTTAWA (CP)—The New Party came up Monday with a new twist in national political convention operating procedure—a force of husky sergeants-at-arms acting as "policemen" in the crowded Coliseum.

The 45-man force, set up by the arrangements committee and recruited from unions and New Party clubs across the country, kept a check on delegates' badges, distributed literature and controlled crowd movements.

The men were in shirtsleeves with white-lettered black armbands to identify them.

The procedure is an example of labor's influence on the convention arrangements, stemming from the practice at local and national union meetings.

No Bands Or Flags, Just Piano

OTTAWA (CP)—When a professor of classics throws off his suit coat, puts on a green eyeshade and starts to light a filter-tip cigarette at the filter end in front of a crowd of hundreds, it can be assumed he's getting down to hard work.

It was done Monday by Professor George Maximilian Antony Grube, classics don at Trinity College, University of Toronto.

And the action seemed to be symbolic of the manner in which the whole New Party founding convention went to work in the heat of an Ottawa summer, and the smells of Ottawa's Coliseum and Livestock show ring.

SUBTLE SWITCH

The New Party gathering was not unlike most other political fireworks set off periodically in the Ottawa Coliseum. But there were subtle differences.

There were fewer flags and banners—not a Canadian ensign or Union Jack in sight. There was no band to rouse delegates into sing-song enthusiasm, but merely a piano tinkling in a corner of the big hall.

Everything printed or otherwise manufactured carried a union label—including the bits of green ribbon used as press badges.

Shun Neutrality CLC Chief Urges

OTTAWA (CP)—Claude J. Jodoin, president of the Canadian Labor Congress, made a strong plea Monday for an anti-neutrality New Party that would work for peace within existing Western alliances.

In a keynote speech to the New Party convention, the burly, 48-year-old leader of the 1,150,000-member central labor body spelled out labor's views on foreign affairs, which promises to be a knotty policy question facing the New Party founders.

The idea of a completely neutral position in world affairs as they exist today is a complete illusion," said Mr. Jodoin. "There are no completely neutral countries and there can be none."

The very idea of neutrality is contrary to the philosophy of the trade union movement.

MUST TAKE STAND

"We have grown in an atmosphere of controversy and we could never have made the contribution which we have, had we not been prepared to take our stand on one side or the other."

Mr. Jodoin declared that Canada should remain in NATO, a point directly at odds with CCF policy but within the proposed program of the New Party.

"We do not regard NATO as an article of faith or a way of life, but we do believe that, at the moment, it is a means by which we can co-operate with those who have proved themselves to be our friends."

"We took for some major change in NATO and we hold the view that Canada can contribute to bringing these changes about by retaining membership, rather than by cutting herself off in an isolated position outside the organization."

He said labor looks to the day when the United Nations will be strengthened to a point where regional alliances will disappear.

Into Europe

MR. MACMILLAN'S STATEMENT to Parliament this week represents the gravest economic decision taken by Britain in the present century at least. The British government has decided to negotiate for membership in the Common Market of Europe. It does not follow automatically, by any means, however, that Britain will be accepted as a member on the kind of terms that can satisfy it.

The conflicts of interest which the negotiations will try to resolve are familiar and great.

Britain is prepared to expose its economy, by successive stages, to reduced tariffs and the increasing competition of European goods, in the belief that this competition can be met and will prove beneficial.

In return, it hopes to secure a much larger market for its own goods in Europe. It is also ready to accept, as a general principle, the common tariff which the Common Market intends to apply against goods from all nations outside its membership.

But Britain is not prepared, apparently, to liquidate the entire structure of tariff preferences by which goods from such Commonwealth nations as Canada enter the British market at specially low tariffs, or with no tariffs at all.

The practical issue in the forthcoming negotiations, therefore, is whether the continental nations will agree to waive their strict rules, by some form of compromise, to accommodate Britain's special situation and the interests of its overseas Commonwealth partners.

As Mr. Macmillan says, there is no guarantee that the negotiations can succeed. West Germany, as its minister of economics, Dr. Erhard, told this newspaper last autumn, is prepared to give Britain wide exemptions from the rules of the Common Market and realizes that the Commonwealth preference system cannot be wholly liquidated. France, on the other hand, with typical Gallic logic, has insisted, publicly at any rate, that any nation joining the Common Market must accept the entire Treaty of Rome, without variation.

In the end these problems will probably prove to be negotiable, given the will to agreement, simply because agreement is vital to all of free Europe and the present economic division intolerable. Britain, as Mr. Macmillan says, must consider the situation resulting from failure to agree—a situation which must leave Britain's basic economic problems unsolved, Europe increasingly divided and the free world increasingly strained.

It is useless to imagine that the overseas Commonwealth nations like Canada can escape some adverse effects from the union of the Six and the Seven and the enforcement of their common tariff against the outside world.

Even if such goods as Canadian wheat are allowed to enter Britain without tariff, Europe will certainly not extend this breach of the rules to many manufactured products. Our manufactured exports to Britain—relatively small but growing—will feel the bite of increased competition from Europe and a preferential tariff in reverse.

On the other hand, the prosperity of Britain is essential to the prosperity of Canada and the prosperity of a united Europe will increase its total demand for Canadian goods, though it may alter the composition of our exports.

The true solution of all the problems thus presented to Canada, as Mr. Pearson has long argued, is an expansion of the Common Market principles across the Atlantic to include this country, the United States and any other country that cares to join and accept the rules of successive tariff reduction.

This concept of a broad Atlantic community has been rejected by the Canadian government, apparently in the belief that its protests could bluff Britain out of any negotiations with the Six. That bluff has failed. Britain, very late, is seeking entry into the Common Market, while promising to protect, as far as possible, the interests of the other Commonwealth nations.

Mr. Macmillan says that the negotiations will be complex, technical and protracted but Canada will be unwise to resist or harass them since their failure, solidifying the division of Europe and the free world, would also divide the Commonwealth. The Canadian government, having taken the short view so far, should take the long, now that Britain's course is set.

Paradise Enow . . .

MR. KHRUSHCHEV'S PLANS for a Soviet Utopia within 20 years may well be realized. Few of those who heard the promises of a Soviet Utopia 44 years ago will live to see it. But Russia's progress in science, industry and education since 1917 certainly give every indication that promises of an economy replete with consumer goods within the next two decades are entirely reasonable.

There are certain conditions, however, which must be observed. The prime one is that there must be no world war, and Mr. Khrushchev's twenty-year plan is interpreted in some quarters as a very hopeful sign that he intends to preserve world peace, however he may indulge in rocket-rattling and local manoeuvrings.

The second condition is allied with the first: namely, that the Soviet Union must devote a large part of its productive effort to consumer goods instead of military armament and heavy industry. Only thus will it be able to match the West in the supply of luxury items and the many products which we have come to accept as necessities.

But, as in all man-made Utopias, there will be a flaw. Mr. Khrushchev promises free housing, free utilities, free transport, free this and free that. Such things, of course, cannot be free. They come only as the result of man's productive effort; they must be paid for in work, whether the cash settlement is made by the individual, as in our country, or by the state whose revenue is derived from taxes on the individual's labor.

The under-developed countries will take note of Mr. Khrushchev's plans, and no doubt will look for early signs of implementation. That constitutes one of the major challenges to the West, for democracy and communism will be judged in many new states not so much for their political significance as for their ability to provide the economic climate which encourages quick prosperity.

It is to be hoped that, regardless of the Russians' success in providing free goods and service of various kinds, the watching nations will not overlook the need for some commodities which Mr. Khrushchev does not mention: free minds, free politics, free religion, free men and women. It will be a sorry Utopia which cannot exhibit these things too, whether it takes twenty years to achieve or 2,000.

Waning Power of Violence

THE ASSURANCE THAT terrorist bombing of the Verigin tomb and incendiary fires in two community halls will not stop orthodox Doukhobors from buying former communal land from the government carries particular significance.

The criminal actions are viewed as a form of violent protest by one faction of the religious sect. To be effective, the crimes would have to discourage purchase of the lands. If the sales are made, then it appears that orthodox Doukhobors are reaching the point where they will no longer be intimidated by any of their compatriots.

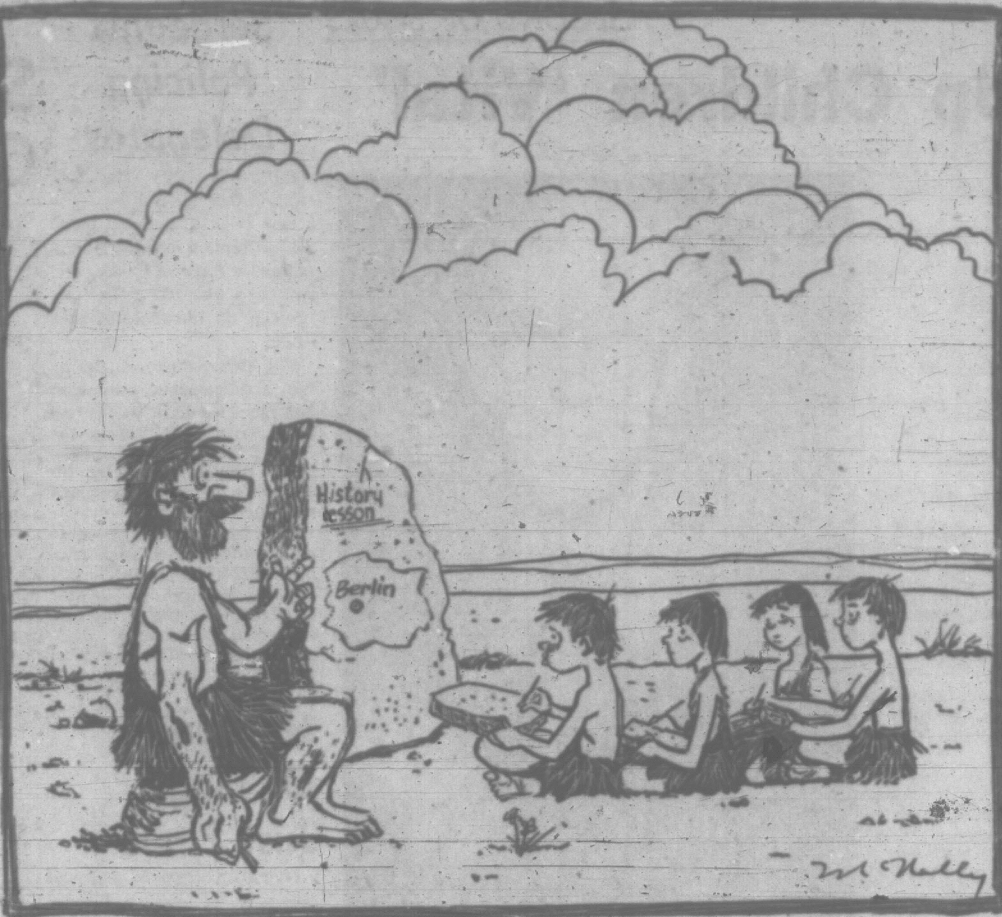

Once that position has been established by the main body of Doukhobors, then the criminal acts of a minority must be viewed in a new light among the people concerned. The destruction of property and desecration of the tomb can only be regarded by Doukhobors as crimes—crimes for which the laws of the country stipulate certain penalties.

In the slow process of change, the majority of the Doukhobors—good citizens in virtually all respects—may be expected to deal with their more violent brothers in the accepted way, through law.

That time may yet be some distance away, but the mere fact that the majority will not be deterred from purchase of the land by deeds of violence shows the waning power of the arsonists and bombers.

Once their own community stamps the latter as criminals, police action against them will become more effective.

The Continuing Dilemma of Recognition

PREMIER Chen Cheng and Foreign Minister Shen Chang Huan of Nationalist China have gone to the United States from Formosa to try to settle the acute differences between Washington and Taipei which could lead to little less than a revolution in the United Nations.

The trouble started when the Kennedy administration informed President Chiang Kai-shek's government earlier this year that Washington was considering recognizing the Mongolian People's Republic (Outer Mongolia) and supporting its admission to the U.N.

The American charge d'affaires in Moscow had in fact submitted to the Mongolian ambassador a questionnaire designed to establish whether Outer Mongolia was a sovereign state within the meaning of the U.N. charter, and whether U.S. representatives would be granted normal diplomatic privileges if they set up a mission in the capital, Ulan Bator.

It is reported that Chiang Kai-shek "saw red" when he heard of this move, and at the beginning of July Chen Cheng, who is also vice-president, again threatened that Nationalist China, a member of the Security Council as well as of the General Assembly, would withdraw from the U.N. if Outer Mongolia's nomination were accepted.

Puppet State

Taipei contends that Mongolia is "a 100 per cent puppet state" of the USSR whose "autonomy" was only conceded by the Western allies at the secret Yalta talks during World War Two. The Nationalists claim that it is really part of China.

The claim can hardly be called strong, however. In 1915 Russia and China were parties to a treaty whereby the one-million-odd cattle-breeding inhabitants of the Mongolian uplands were thereafter ruled by their own lama under the suzerainty of China. But when the last lama died the Russians instigated a "People's revolution" and in 1924 Mongolia became "an independent republic allied to the USSR."

By signing the Sino-Soviet treaty of 1945 Chiang Kai-shek officially recognized Mongolia's "sovereignty." The Chinese Nationalists have been spurred to challenge Washington not so much by disregard for their somewhat antique territorial claims as by this new evidence that President Kennedy has set out to resolve international discord in a spirit of compromise, which may leave America's staunch anti-Communist allies in Asia—and above all Formosa—isolated and without firm support.

A Retreat

In Taipei recognition of Outer Mongolia is dubbed "a retreat," and the Nationalists now fear that her acceptance into the U.N. might be a dummy run for the admission of Communist China.

Mr. Everett Drumwright, America's ambassador to Taipei who was recalled at the beginning of July to Washington for consultations, was to have explained to Chiang Kai-shek or his ministers that diplomatic exchanges between Washington and Ulan Bator would enable the U.S. to establish a first-class listening post in Communist Asia, especially for tuning in on Sino-Soviet relations.

Commentators also point out that if Nationalist China does not oppose the U.N. membership of Outer Mongolia, Mauretanian's admission—which may be coupled with it—will be assured. This will please the African states and help maintain the balance of influence between East and West in the world body. If, on the other hand, Formosa raises the boom against the one, the other is also likely to be excluded. The Afro-Asian states may then forget past reservations and demand a seat in the Assembly for Communist China.

The Nationalists are reminded that the majority in favor of a moratorium on the admission of Peking decreases every year and in 1960 was upheld by a margin of only four votes. By last month many of the African member states had already appealed to Taipei not to use the power of veto against Outer Mongolia.

The U.S. States Department has declared, moreover, that it has not yet taken a decision on the recognition of Outer Mongolia, and has reaffirmed that it supports Formosa and opposes Communist Chinese membership of the U.N. But weeks ago it was revealed in Washington that the Americans were seeking to rationalize the anomalous situation in the U.N. and to anticipate the moment when they would have to accept Communist China's membership willy-nilly. The Nationalists quickly learned that the state department had produced a pageful of doodles among which the only recognizable design was a formula for giving Peking one seat in the General Assembly while leaving Taipei membership of both the assembly and the Security Council.

It was "only one of several alternatives" American officials explained, and America could certainly not sponsor China's admission herself.

It was hinted that the proposal could be formulated in such a way that Communist China would in any case refuse the candidature.

The Nationalists, foreseeing that a complacent third power might introduce Peking's nomination as a procedural matter and so duck Formosa's veto in the Security Council, have therefore struck back hard and early by threatening to leave the U.N. if even Outer Mongolia is admitted.

High Stakes

The Americans now find themselves playing poker for high stakes, and it remains to be seen whether they can see Chen Cheng's hand in Washington and collect the kitty. For if Formosa withdraws from the U.N. the way is open for Communist China to step not only into the General Assembly but into the Security Council as well, complete with veto powers.

The game is by no means in Chiang Kai-shek's hands. He no more wants Peking in the Security Council than does President Kennedy. He does not wish to isolate Formosa further by alienating the Afro-Asian bloc. Finally, the American argument that Peking can easily be induced to refuse U.N. membership carries weight in Taipei. Chinese leaders on both sides of the bamboo curtain, however violent their "internal quarrel," hold strikingly similar views on matters that touch Chinese sovereignty.

The Nationalists have denounced the idea that both Peking and Taipei could be represented simultaneously in the U.N. as part of an inadmissible "two Chinas" policy, and the Communists have done the same to the point of quoting large extracts from Nationalist newspapers in their own agency bulletins. In the Opinion of Our Correspondents

Action, Not Violence

In the "Here and There" column of last Thursday Norman Cribbens seems to suggest that peace is impossible because our youngsters love violence. I do not agree.

What the kiddies really love is action, not violence, and there are many ways of giving them action without violence—in sporting events, first-aid and life-saving exercises, etc.

To say that children want war because they applaud violence in the movies and on TV is a fallacy. They are just as excited by fast-moving ball games, horse races or even bike races. So I don't think we need despair about the chances of ultimate world peace.

When Good Men Do Nothing

Rev. Daniel Lowery of Holy Redeemer College in Washington deplored the low state of business ethics in addressing some 200 Roman Catholic U.S. and Canadian theologians in convention at Ottawa recently. He also stated that the theologians should take the matter of income tax and really make a study for a couple of years. Note: he did not say appoint somebody to do it; he advised doing it yourself.

Father Lowery must have been thinking of that great parliamentarian, Edmund Burke, who said: "The only thing necessary for the triumph of evil is for good men to do nothing."

Re letters on "Religion in Schools," the text, "Render therefore unto Caesar the things which are Caesar's; and unto God the things that are God's," has been discussed. It is evident that this answer Christ gave to the Pharisees was a reply to a question regarding the paying of tribute. But Christ's answers to question put to Him in His day often had underlying principles involved which could be applied to certain questions today.

It seems to me that in the above-mentioned text of Matthew 22:21, a principle was set forth which clearly defined the limits of man's duty to the government and his duty to God. Thus in one sense this text could be used to show that these separate realms have certain claims.

Red China Recognition

For some years Socialists in this country have been advocating Canadian recognition of Mao Tse-tung's Communist dictatorship in mainland China, and the admission of that dictatorship—despite its genocide in Tibet—to membership in the United Nations.

In the House of Commons at Ottawa on April 1, 1952, Mr. Lester Pearson, then Secretary of State for External Affairs, made the following assertions: "We have subscribed to international agreements recognizing Formosa as part of China... We recognize that now sovereignty legally resides in China. Legally Formosa is part of China." (See the Canadian House of Commons Debates, Session of 1952, Volume I, page 1009.)

On October 6, 1959, however, Mr. Hazen Argue of the CCF told an audience in British Columbia that the Mao Tse-tung regime should be recognized as the "sole government of China."

In the light of Mr. Pearson's statement in the Commons in 1952, such recognition of Mao as the "sole" ruler of China—or Mao's admission in that capacity to the United Nations—would seem likely to give the Chinese Communist tyranny a strong legal claim to Formosa. If Formosa is "part of China," and if Mao is recognized as the

OTTAWA:

Restoring Prestige

By TOM GOULD

THE appointment of Louis Rasminsky as governor of the Bank of Canada is only the beginning of the long task necessary to restore the shattered prestige of the central bank. Mr. Rasminsky's appointment has been welcomed by the heads of Canada's chartered banks, many of whom sent him letters warmly congratulating him—letters that went beyond the usual courtesies. It is a known fact he is admired in the select field of international banking. His qualifications are unquestioned.

But some time will pass before Mr. Rasminsky's views are known on monetary policy, and that is what is important. Mr. Coyne was a crusader for a sound dollar, an avowed opponent of inflation; in the final analysis, that is why Mr. Fleming wanted Coyne removed.

At one time the finance minister and Mr. Coyne were as one on the subject of inflation. Now Mr. Fleming has been converted. An election is in the offing, and the Diefenbaker government needs an infusion of new money to pay its way out of another gigantic deficit. It obviously believes Mr. Rasminsky is the man to provide the new money.

Important Difference

Although the Coyne hearings failed to prove the former governor had opposed government policies during his tenure, they did illustrate an important difference in outlook. Mr. Coyne felt strongly that fiscal policy was more important than monetary policy in lifting Canada out of her current economic problems. The government appeared to hold that monetary policy was the great cure-all.

Where does Mr. Rasminsky stand?

The position of the bank's board of directors cannot be overlooked at this critical period in the institution's history. All of the directors today are Conservative appointees. With the exception of one man, they took orders from the government and called for Mr. Coyne's resignation.

That is not a good foundation on which to rebuild the prestige of the Bank of Canada. Even in the appointment of Mr. Rasminsky, it is obvious the directors were carrying out Mr. Fleming's orders.

Still not disclosed is the amount of salary to be paid to the new governor, although it is taken for granted he will receive the same as Mr. Coyne, $50,000 a year. Even more interesting would be the arrangement made for the governor's pension.

During the Coyne debate, Prime Minister Diefenbaker and Finance Minister Fleming, in their attempt to blacken the name of Mr. Coyne and thus turn the tide of public opinion, strongly criticized the pension of $25,000 a year established by the Conservative board of directors. According to some commentators, this was to be the meat cleaver the government would use to lop off Mr. Coyne's head out in the hushings.

No Hardship

When Mr. Rasminsky was asked to take the job, he would of course ask what would happen to this pension, a pension that was set high enough to enable any governor of the Bank of Canada to resign on a question of principle without suffering undue financial hardship; in essence, to provide the governor with a measure of financial independence.

It is unlikely that Mr. Rasminsky would accept a lower pension; that would constitute an act of subservience that would not augur well for the independence of the bank from political considerations.

If the government fails to reduce the pension (and again it is assumed here it will not interfere with the previous arrangement) Mr. Diefenbaker and his colleagues will have lost the first round of the Coyne controversy.

Their situation was expressed this week by a Western Conservative MP, just returned from his riding, who found that every time he brought up the pension, his people asked: "If it's too high, why don't you reduce it?" The MP said he was simply forced to drop the whole subject.

Within the Bank of Canada itself, Mr. Rasminsky's appointment is said to have been a big morale booster. There had been suggestions an outsider would be named. The man bypassed in the appointment, deputy governor R. S. Beattie, was never considered, as he was very close to Mr. Coyne. Government officials said they expect Mr. Beattie to stay on until the end of his term, which expires Dec. 31.

REPORTING

OTTAWA—Fifteen years ago the political tone of the day was M. J. Coldwell's imperative "Left Turn, Canada!"

Today such a title would more properly be written "Left Turn, Canada?" And it would epitomize the political atmosphere into which the New Party is being born.

In fact, many of those who are fore-gathered here so enthusiastically this week to help Rev. Stanley Knowles solemnize the marriage of the CCF and the Canadian Labor Congress must wonder if the imminent offspring is being projected into this political world under propitious circumstances.

The New Party is a CCF-Labor coalition, a neo-socialist party offering a program of economic planning, labor direction, public ownership and welfare statism at a time when the most powerful federal government in Canadian history is Conservative, and when the popular appeal of CCF-socialism has shown no sign of pulling out of the steady decline it has suffered since 1945.

The first objective of the New Party is to replace the Liberals as the alternative to the Tory government. Two years ago, when the engagement of the CCF and Big Labor was announced, this looked easier than it does today. The Tories had utterly routed the Grits, and there was a vacuum in the two-party system that offered socialism its great chance.

In the interim the Diefenbaker administration's popularity, as indicated by both Gallup Poll and by-election results, has fallen sharply. But the Liberal opposition has picked up most of the support that the government has lost, while some of the remainder has gone to the resurgent Social Credit movement. What is left is little encouragement for the 1,800 founding fathers of the New Party gathered here this week.

The decline of the CCF in the last decade is shown by election statistics. In 1953 the CCF got 11.5 per cent of the vote; in 1957 it attracted 10.9 per cent, and in 1958 the fall-off continued, to 9.8 per cent. Gallup Poll figures for two months ago show the CCF was being supported by 9 per cent of the voters, and the New Party by 1 per cent.

The May 31 poll gave the Liberals 32 per cent of popular support and the Conservatives 40 per cent.

This isn't to write off the New Party before it is born. There are factors in the situation that could give the New Party more vote appeal in the next election than my statistics indicate. One is the dynamism of Tommy Douglas as party leader. Another is the appeal of "something new," even if the old line parties will belittle the New Party and its program as warmed-over CCFism. A third is the votes, campaign funds and proselytism promised the New Party by the CLC unions.

As an exercise in arithmetic, you can add 602,386 CCF votes in 1958 plus a net increase of X votes from the 1,100,000 members of CLC unions plus a net increase of Y votes from wives and offspring of such union members and arrive at a figure that is within shooting distance of the 2,459,700 Liberal votes in 1958.

But the percentage of popular support figures are much more realistic, and much less encouraging to the New Party, fathers as they contemplate the prospects of the New Party becoming a substantially more effective political force than ever the CCF was.

HYDRO DELAY DANGEROUS SAYS GREEN

VANCOUVER (CP)—Premier Bennett must answer to the people if the Columbia River hydro scheme collapses, External Affairs Minister Green said Monday.

Mr. Green said in an interview the federal government has set no deadlines for British Columbia to agree to the development proposed in treaty with the United States.

But there is a real danger the U.S. authorities will tire of the delay and turn to other sources of cheap power, he said.

"The B.C. negotiators are depriving the citizens of the province of the project (and) they are accountable to the people. It is between the people and the provincial government now," Mr. Green said.

HOPE NOT GONE

Young Chiefs Of Viet Nam Battle Reds

By JOHN GREFFIN

PHUOC LONG, South Viet Nam (AP)—It is often easy to be pessimistic about South Viet Nam's war against Communist rebels—especially in the capital of Saigon.

At night, the sound of gun battles with small Communist bands often can be heard outside the capital. Some people cite this as evidence that things are much worse than the government will admit.

But, ironically, it is down here in the southern Mekong River delta region, where the threat is greatest, that you find the most cause for hope.

The delta is an area of flooded rice lands and swamps, divided into islands by winding brown rivers and crisscrossing canals.

There is plenty of trouble down here; bridges blown up, officials murdered, militiamen huddled almost helplessly and scared in mud forts waiting for night attack.

The Communist Viet Cong controls whole areas, has its own training centres, arms factories, hospitals.

But the strength of the pro-Western forces rests in new young leaders who are fighting the Communists in new ways and with success.

Col. Huynh Van Cao, stocky and only 34, is in charge of co-ordinating military activities in five key provinces that spread across the delta region.

AMBUSHED REDS
He laid the mid-July ambush in which more than 200 Communist rebels were killed in one of the government's biggest victories.

"We have to change our tactics," he says. "We have too many people in watch towers and mud forts. Spread out so they haven't enough strength to protect themselves."

"We need more of what the Viet Cong has—mobility and the ability to mount a major offensive striking force quickly when the enemy is found."

Lt. Col. Pham Ngoc Thao, governor of Kien Hoa province, is a different type. He was Communist-trained but now is one of the most effective fighters against the Reds.

Col. Thao, 37, is a Roman Catholic and says he switched allegiance in 1952, after fighting on the side of the Communists in the war against the French. His brother is still Communist North Viet Nam's ambassador to East Germany.

THE BERLIN CRISIS

No Word to Describe Nazi Legacy

In this first of a series of four stories intended to illuminate the problems that make up the Berlin crisis, AP correspondent Carl Hartman outlines the historical background of the isolated, divided, threatened city.

By CARL HARTMAN

BERLIN (AP)—Isolated, divided, threatened—these are the words most often used to describe Berlin. All of them are accurate.

Just as remarkable is one characteristic of the city that no single word can describe. It is the only place on earth where you can walk across the street from communism into the Western world and vice versa.

This is a legacy from Adolf Hitler and the Nazis whose Swastika banners flew in Berlin from 1933 until the country was defeated in 1945.

The Red army occupied the city in the closing days of the Second World War, then turned over a little more than half the city to the American, French and British allies.

In dividing the city, the Western allies got the more populous half, with some of the best living quarters. The Soviet sector included the central district of government buildings and shops, but there was little left of them.

SYSTEM FAILS

The system of four-power rule did not last in Berlin. By 1948, East and West Berlin had separate currencies and city governments. They were soon to have separate—and unconnected—telephone, electric power and surface transport systems. Subway and elevated trains continued to run through both parts of the city. There was little interference with pedestrians and private cars. The only time the Iron Curtain was effectively rolled down was for a few days during the anti-Communist uprising of 1953.

But the Communists isolated West Berlin much more effectively from West Germany. This was easy, since the city lies in the middle of Soviet-controlled East Germany, with the rest of the Western world 110 miles away.

The Communists permitted contact between West, Berlin and West Germany only across two canals, four roads, four rail lines and three air corridors.

In June, 1948, the Communists blocked everything but the air corridors. For 11 months a Western airlift supplied West Berlin's 2,250,000 citizens.

After the blockade ended, Western authorities set about building up stockpiles of everything a city needs, from hairpins to the brown coal that heats many Berlin homes. Supplies for about 18 months were accumulated.

MIRACLE TAKES PLACE
It was after the blockade, too, that West Germany's "economic miracle" spread to Berlin and developed the contrast between the East and West sectors.

West Berlin is a city of new buildings. It has heavily stocked and luxurious shops. Streets are filled with well-dressed people and there is the beginning of a traffic problem.

East Berlin has much less to show in the way of construction. Most of all in what was once the heart of the city.

Wilhelmstrasse and Unter den Linden, the great names among Berlin streets, are dead.

Italian Air Ace Dies

CARZANA, Italy (AP)—Vasco Magrini, 67, Italian ace of the First World War who claimed to be the first pilot ever to fly a jet plane, was killed Sunday stunt flying at an air show.

Magrini, said he made the first test flight near Florence in 1929 in an experimental jet plane built in Italy but rejected by the Italian air force.

Shops are poorly stocked and the stock is slazy. There are few people on the streets and their clothes are weary looking. Cars are scarce.

Hundreds of refugees have been coming over to West Berlin every day, and at peak periods the daily figure has topped the 1,000 mark. Though they have had to leave behind almost everything they owned, they have had good prospects for jobs.

The flight of refugees has hit the Communists heavily, in both their economy and their propaganda.

Tomatoes Survived Early Heat

A couple of weeks ago I mentioned that blossoms on my tomatoes had failed to set fruit during the two or three days of high temperatures, hoping the admission would be a consolation to those who had called regarding this trouble.

Not that tomatoes are lacking on the plants; for the set this year has been excellent, but the flowers which should have been pollinated on the hot days just fell off the plants.

The reason for this is that tomato plants are capable of the more tender parts (which are the blossoms) when air conditions are not right, that is, when too cold or too hot and dry.

It was a surprise to me to receive telephone calls from so many local gardeners who depend on hormone sprays, or fruit-set sprays to obtain their tomatoes.

And it was probably a surprise to those who called, to hear that I have never found a fruit-set spray necessary here.

These hormone sprays were designed for use in greenhouses to eliminate the high noon ritual of tapping the plants to disperse the pollen.

Later they were found useful on outdoor plants where weather conditions were not ideal for tomato growing.

Briefly, their action is to cause the fruit to develop without pollination, and therefore, without seeds. This results in earlier ripening (four weeks being about the average reported), and fruits which lack the jelly and seeds that splash over table, walls and ceiling when the skin is pierced.

This note is passed along for those who may wish to try a spray this season. Using it on blossoms which develop from now on will give an opportunity for comparison of the later fruits in regard to texture, flavor, size and length of time needed for ripening.

Yuri Throws Light On Russ Moon Shots

MOSCOW (Reuters)—Russian astronaut Yuri Gagarin in a letter published here slightly lifted the cloak of security surrounding the Soviet Union's three lunar probes.

Gagarin's letter appeared in the monthly magazine Knowledge is Strength.

He said Lunik One, aimed at crash-landing on the moon, missed the target by 1,670 miles because of a fault in its electronic equipment.

Gagarin, who last April 12 became the first man to orbit the earth, said Lunik Two, which successfully crashed on the moon, announced its arrival by exploding a special powder charge.

The spaceman said Lunik Three photographed the other side of the moon, never before seen by man, by recording the scene on film rather than by employing television scanning.

Gagarin said that now that machinery has reached the moon, persons also could make the voyage.

Lunik One was launched Jan. 2, 1960. It took five days to cover the 238,000 miles to the moon. After missing the target, the 3,245-pound vehicle went into orbit around the sun.

Lunik One revolves around the sun once every 15 months. The "lowest" point in its orbit is 91,000,000 miles from the sun. Its "highest" point is 122,000,000 miles from the sun.

Lunik Three also went into a solar orbit.

B.C. Swimmer Breaks Record

MONTREAL (CP)—The Canadian swimming championships slipped into high gear today as some 200 swimmers begin a concentrated assault on the Canadian swimming record book.

And if the sparkling performance turned in Monday by Sandy Gilchrist of Ocean Falls, B.C., is any indication of things to come, the championship meet should provide plenty of thrills.

The 15-year-old sprinter through the 1,500-yard free-style event in 18:24.7 to set a new Canadian short-course record for the distance. He was well ahead of the previous record of 19:02.3 held by Bill Slater of Vancouver.

Patterson Turns On Former Mates

MONTREAL (CP)—Hal Patterson turned on his onetime employers Monday night with a pair of touchdown catches and powered Hamilton Tiger-Cats to a 25-16 win over Montreal Alouettes in exhibition football. Attendance was 17,635.

The 28-year-old end, traded to the Ticats in the off-season after seven years with Montreal, hauled in tosses from Bernie Faloney on plays that covered 83 yards and 35 yards.

From the roar of the fans it might have been that Hal never left Montreal. Up on their feet, they gave him a big hand each time.

At halftime Hamilton led 12-0.

Jarring action marked play and a couple of members of both clubs had to be helped off the field at various stages.

This family is the victim of hot weather stalling—one of the infuriating troubles that can strike your car on sizzling days. Super Shell's Hot Weather Blend fights three of them.

HAPPY WEEKEND?

Fight hot weather sluggishness with Super Shell's Hot Weather Blend. Famous 9-ingredient formula now adjusted for top performance when temperatures soar Summer heat can make gasoline bubble. In extreme cases this can stall you dead. It can also cause hard starting and rough idling.

Read how Super Shell's Hot Weather Blend fights these summer problems. It just might save you a lot of trouble this weekend. You can get it at any Shell station on your route.

Engines, like people, can suffer from heat prostration. Especially in the kind of hot and heavy traffic you may face during the weekend ahead.

Here are some infuriating troubles that are caused by excessive heat—and what Super Shell's Hot Weather Blend does to fight them.

1. How Super Shell fights hot weather stalls

If your engine loses power, or in extreme cases sputters and dies on a hot day, it may have an ailment called vapour lock.

Vapour lock strikes when heat and altitude makes a volatile gasoline start to boil right in the fuel line. This produces bubbles that can choke off the fuel supply.

Shell scientists attack vapour lock by revising Super Shell's 9-ingredient formula in summer. This reduces its volatility.

This is a hot weather blend of Super Shell that's not likely to boil in your fuel line—it cuts the chances of hot weather power-loss to a minimum even on a hot day in the mountains.

2. How Super Shell fights hard starting

Here's what can happen when you try to restart your car after a hot drive. With the fan stopped and the cooling system idle, intense heat under the hood can actually make gasoline percolate in your carburetor. Just like coffee in a pot.

The gasoline spills over, floods your engine—and makes starting difficult.

Super Shell's Hot Weather Blend is formulated to stand high temperatures without percolating. You can get quick starts even after a long, hard, hot drive.

3. How Super Shell fights rough idling

The same trouble that causes summer starting difficulties can give your car the shakes every time you stop for traffic lights.

Super Shell's Hot Weather Blend attacks both problems the same way. Its formula is adjusted so that it's in no hurry to boil and bubble. Result: smooth idling in hot weather.

4. Some engine problems Super Shell can't solve

Super Shell helps correct hot weather stalling but it cannot cure mechanical defects in your engine. Your Shell dealer can. Here are a few engine faults that cause overheating and how your Shell man can help:

1. A plugged radiator stops the free flow of cooling air. Have your Shell dealer clean out bugs and dirt, install a bug screen.
2. A slipping fan belt doesn't spin your fan fast enough. Have your Shell dealer check your fan belt, install a new one if yours is cracked, slack.
3. A faulty fuel pump can aggravate vapour lock. Your Shell dealer can check fuel line pressure in a few moments.

Keep Super Shell's Hot Weather Blend in your tank. You'll really be set for top performance.

Super Shell's 9 Ingredients for top performance

- #1 is TCP* for power, mileage, and longer plug life.
- #2 is "cat-cracked" gasoline—for extra power.
- #3 is anti-knock mix to resist all kinds of knocks.
- #4 is heavy alkanes to control "high-speed knock."
- #5 is butane for quick starts.
- #6 is mixed pentanes for fast warm-ups.
- #7 is an "anti-icer." (Added in cold weather).
- #8 is gum preventive to keep carburetors clean inside.
- #9 is Platformate for extra mileage.

WHO NEEDS A BOAT TO USE WATER SKIS?

GILROY, Calif. (AP)—Watchmen at the nearby Coyote Dam reservoir thought they saw a mirage when a youth emerged from a pickup truck and put on water skis.

The youth attached a tow line to the truck, signalled to a companion inside and away they went, reaching speeds estimated at 25 miles an hour.

The reservoir is dry and covered with sand. The youths fled before they could be stopped for trespassing.

Item: R.C. Lions 13, Saskatchewan 2.
Comment: The financially fat Lions of Wayne Robinson were expected to grind into mincemeat the "pore little chills" from the drought-hit prairies. Truth of the matter seems to be that nobody won this exhibition game but the promoters. Their bill flew over with green paper hands over by 28,000 fanatics.

This was a defensive affair in which the passing was pretty and ineffective and the runners acted like they wore cork boots. Robinson was his usual vocal self. "Ugh," was his immediate reaction, followed by "ugh, ugh."

Steve Owen, Regina's manager of brains and beef, was full of enthusiasm and expectations (cut plug).

We completed two many passes—to Vancouver. We might have scored more if the boys hadn't kept cutting into the middle. Like we used to in New York—they're all small town boys who want to go to Fifth and Madison to see the heavy traffic.

Esks Make Grey Cuppers Eat Crow

Item: Edmonton 17, Ottawa 3.

Comment: They're still playing for fun. But how much fun is it if you have that Grey Cup smile pushed down your throat? Ottawa didn't spare the misery in trouncing the Eskimos in last year's grid finale.

So it must have been with great glee that Eagle-Kays mastodons paid their respects to Frank Clark's Roughies.

When the lights went out at Edmonton's Clarke Stadium for 47 minutes it may have been an omen for Ottawa. Some teams, trying to fathom Edmonton's Jackie Parker, have been in the dark for years. Ottawa may never recover.

Item: Baltimore sweeps pair from New York.

Comment: You can run for quite awhile on a Ford but what do you do when the Ford is in the garage? The Yankees rolled to victory with (Whitey) Ford Saturday. Then Paul Richards sent out two sleek models, Steve Barber and Milt Pappas Sunday and the New York horsepower was auspiciously silent.

Earlier this year, Yankee-lovers held their noses when Salevepost published a story by that distinguished journalist Richards entitled: "This is the year Baltimore will win the pennant." Paul may still have to eat his syntax. But the way his youth movement is dispensing fastballs, the Yankees would do well to avoid them whenever possible.

Our Ball Kids Just Diamond Gems

Item: Victoria teams win B.C. Babe Ruth title, Western Canada Pony League crown and Vancouver Island Little League championship.

Comment: Some days you can fall out of bed, roll under the mattress and come up holding a $10 bill. Not that luck had that much to do with these exhilarating success stories. Good teams make their own fortune and we teach them on the most ardent minor baseball plan anywhere. The coaches shouldn't be forgotten either. Talent was never harmed by patience and perseverance.

Item: Nanaimo 11, Vancouver 5.

Comment: They started slowly—not quite as slowly as Victoria—but don't be surprised if Nanaimo wraps up the Inter-City Lacrosse League playoff championship this year.

Now Westminster has balance. Vancouver has no apparent weakness but Nanaimo has Jack Blonda, Skip Mackay, Boldy Allan and Don Ashbee and mother, they're murder.

Ashbee's five-goal spree Saturday more than made up for the small cigar which burned a large hole in his pocket book (he was fined "a substantial sum" for smoking in the penalty box).

The penalty box, incidentally, is the only thing that might stop Nanaimo. If coach Red McMillan can keep his crew from committing assault and mayhem the other teams will end the season early.

QUIET NIGHT... After last Saturday's Nanaimo-Vancouver game, an out-of-town newspaper called its Nanaimo correspondent for details. The correspondent related the score, the scorers and finished with a casual "that's about all." Nothing else worth mentioning," he was asked. "No," he said, "it was fairly quiet." Well, he was almost right. Aside from the fact that Nanaimo fans, lured at the pasting Vancouver coach Bobby Marsh had given their Don Ashbee in Vancouver earlier, pelted Marsh with two dozen eggs which left the floor slippery and resulted in Vancouver's Wayne Peckhold falling and tearing ligaments in his left knee, NOTHING DID HAPPEN.

Rain Saves Ontario; B.C. Shares Top Spot

CALGARY (CP)—Rain, 209 for seven, but Saskatchewan washed out one match and helped two others to draws Monday in the second day of competition at the Dominion cricket championship.

A certain upset of the favored Ontario eleven was staved off by a 20-minute downpour that inundated one section of the outfield, after Alberta had scored 91 runs for the loss of only one wicket in 55 minutes.

Players, spectators and a fire department water pump failed to drain the section. Having dismissed Ontario for 101 runs in less than three hours, Alberta required only 11 runs to win with nine wickets standing.

'Faders' Course' Fine For Old Family Man

CHICAGO (UPI)—A "faders" golf course with "honest greens" meant the biggest paycheck of his career for one of golf's "family men," affable Jerry Barber.

Barber, a mite of a player, five feet, five inches tall and 135 pounds, became the oldest PGA champion ever Monday when he defeated Don January by one stroke, 67 to 68, in an 18-hole playoff on the north course of Olympia Fields country club.

The result, coming because Barber knocked three strokes off par on the last seven holes to overcome a two-stroke deficit, gave the 45-year-old Los Angeles pro, father of five children, his biggest payday, a berth on the Ryder Cup team, and untold dollars from future exhibitions as a champion.

NOT FOR HOOKERS
"This was a faders' golf course," he said. "That's why a lot of your big name players didn't do well. They all hook. I looked at it when I first got here, and hookers can't play well on it."

"It might have looked like I sliced. Well, I did some, but a lot of them were faders, the kind of shots you need to win on this course."

Then the greens were honest. They weren't dishonest, like a lot of those we play. They aren't fast or slow, but they putt honest. If it looks like the ball will break to the left, it will break to the left. If it looks like it'll break to the right, it breaks to the right."

Barber's victory was one of the greatest comebacks of golf. He trailed January by four strokes with three holes to play in the final round and made it up, getting a putt of 20 feet for a birdie three to January's bogie five on the 16th, a 40-foot putt to halve the 17th with par, and a 60 footer for a birdie three to January's bogie on the 18th.

January, 31, won, second money of $3,500 to increase his earnings this year to $24,108.77. He has won three tournaments in five years as a pro, including a victory in the St. Paul Open this year.

July Really Wet ... But All in One Day

July was warmer, sunnier and—believe it or not—wetter than usual.

Victoria received 30 days of good weather and one day of rain. The good weather raised the level of sunshine and average temperature above the normal mark, but the one day of rain was enough to put the month's total precipitation above average.

All in all, it added up to an exceptionally good month for beachgoers.

Average temperature was 61.5 degrees, compared to the usual 60.1, and there were 351.3 hours of sunshine as opposed to the normal total of 337.0. High for temperature the month was 91.3 degrees, a record for July 12, while the low was recorded July 30, when the mercury dipped to 48.9.

Despite all the sunshine, .66 of an inch of rain found time to fall .09 over the average. It all came down on July 6, whereas usually the total is spread over five days.

Meanwhile, weatherman Allan McQuarrie sees only sunny and warm weather ahead for the next few days.

Leg-Pull On Music Lovers

LONDON (AP)—The staid British Broadcasting Corporation admitted today that a strange-sounding musical program it beamed to long-haired listeners was just a leg-pull.

Music lovers who switched onto the highbrow Third Program one June night were invited to listen to "the first performance in England of Piotr Zak's mobile for tape and percussion."

Then across the waves burst a thumping of drums, a bash of cymbals and the rapid tinkling of xylophones.

Twelve minutes it lasted. Next morning two London newspaper critics got down to a studied review of the show. They didn't think much of it.

"Piotr Zak," said The Daily Telegraph, "exploited the percussion with only limited enterprise and his tape emitted a succession of whistles, rattles and punctured sighs that proclaimed all too shamelessly their non-musical origins."

Today the BBC admitted there was no Mr. Zak.

"The composition," said a spokesman "was in fact a tape of percussion instruments played at random."

"It was an experiment to demonstrate that some contemporary compositions are so obscure as to be indistinguishable from tape of percussion played at random."

VIENNA STAR WINS PRAISE

VANCOUVER (CP)—Irmgard Seefried, leading soprano of the Vienna State Opera, was described by critics as a convincing and unique stylist Monday night after a Schubert recital at the Vancouver International Festival.

Frances Campbell of the Vancouver Province said Miss Seefried successfully overcame the difficulty of establishing contact with the audience in the Queen Elizabeth, a large theatre not suitable for intimate recitals.

Hope, Crosby Rent Estate

LONDON (Reuters)—Bob Hope and Bing Crosby have rented an English stately home with two golf courses for their movie-making stay here, it was reported today.

The Daily Mail says Hope and Crosby, who have their families with them, are paying £400 a week for the home in West England.

The paper says the home has 25 acres of grounds, a croquet lawn, a picture gallery and a butler.

Hope and Crosby expect to be in England 11 weeks making a new movie, The Road to Hong Kong.

Hit By Downpour

UNADILLA, N.Y. (AP)—A torrential rain Saturday turned small mountain streams into torrents that washed away buildings and livestock, uprooted trees and stranded motorists in this valley area along the northern part of the Susquehanna River. Army engineers reported that 6.89 inches of rain fell within three hours at nearby East Sidney.

Renfrew Pushed as Deep-Sea Port

By HUMPHRY DAVY

Leaders of industry and business stepped up their campaign for construction of a breakwater across the entrance to historic San Juan Harbor at a rally Monday at Port Renfrew.

The group, about 30 in number, pointed out the urgent need for a breakwater to protect the fishing fleet from storms and to permit the development of the deepsea port, some 60 miles west of Victoria.

Possibility of early federal government support for the project was also discussed by the group when they toured the harbor aboard a fish-packer and inspected its facilities.

Industry which has been campaigning for years for the breakwater hopes Ottawa will undertake the project within the next two years.

"Although Ottawa has made no commitments, I feel sure a breakwater will go in with time," he said.

Harry Hobson, divisional manager of Cowichan-Port Renfrew district, B.C. Forest Products, said a breakwater would provide a safe anchorage for logging booms.

"A protected harbor would also permit loading logs into barges," he said.

Morris Men, an assistant western superintendent for Noranda Exploration Co. Ltd., saw the unprotected sea port as hampering mining operations in the Renfrew district.

"Our company can't start operating its iron ore mine until we have a breakwater," he said. "We can't build wharves and install harbor facilities until there is protection from winter storms."

He said once the breakwater was built his company would start an initial $4,000,000 development for ships to take up to 20,000 tons of iron ore.

Tugs Need Shelter

The iron ore would be shipped to Japan.

James Foster, representing the B.C. Towboat Association, said at present there is no protection for tugs and fishing boats along a 60-mile section of the west coast.

"We need a breakwater as a refuge from storms," he said. "As things are here right now, we're better off fighting out a storm in the Strait than coming into San Juan Harbor."

HARD-WORKING chairman of Port Renfrew breakwater committee is Stuart Furney of B.C. Packers Ltd.

PROTECTION from winter storms would be provided by proposed breakwater at Port San Juan, which would start across harbor from point at left of picture. Breakwater would provide economic boost to Port Renfrew, which loses trade in winter due to lack of safe harborage.

HERE AND THERE ... With NORMAN CRIBBENS

After listening to debates in the B.C. Legislature he decided to become a psychologist.

That, in brief, is the story of ex-page boy Howard Lim, who used to run messages for our talkative M.L.A. back in 1951 and 1952.

"For a time I thought I'd like to be a politician," said Lim. "Then I decided to study psychology instead."

Now 20, Lim is in the fourth year of an honors course in psychology at Victoria College. But he revisited the Building recently and was welcomed back by one of his old bosses—Deputy Sergeant-at-Arms Harry Hunt.

"I always said Howard was the smallest, youngest and smartest boy we ever had," proclaimed Mr. Hunt.

Is it illegal to consume liquor on a B.C. government campus?

A Seattle visitor raised this fine point of law today and took it up with the RCMP. The answer is "No" providing the grog is consumed in a covered tent in which the camper is spending the night.

"A man's tent is his home as long as he lives in it," an RCMP officer said.

Latest convert to Victoria—Father James Heade of St. James Catholic Church, McManisville, Oregon.

"The slower tempo is sheer delight—so are all the lovely flowers and gardens. I'll be back."

That old-fashioned pastime of dropping bottles in the sea has popped up again. Mr. and Mrs. Robert Horowitz of Crestwell, Oregon, tossed an empty crock into the ocean near Seattle last September and promptly forgot all about it.

Just recently they received a note from Mr. and Mrs. P. E. Fane, of Victoria. They had picked up the bottle and the note inside off the Dallas Road Beach.

"We have been corresponding ever since," said Mrs. Horowitz.

It seems Victoria had a whale of a carnival back in August, 1913.

Wally Fletcher, historian at Craigflower Manor, dug up a label button near the old house last week and below the engravings was the inscription: Victoria Carnival Week, Aug. 4-9, 1913.

Our files show that this was a bang-up water carnival, complete with yachts and power boats, put on as a tourist attraction and opened by Lieutenant-Governor Thomas Paterson.

TOPICS OF THE DAY

Similar, domestic accidents Monday sent two men to hospital with badly lacerated arms.

Admitted to St. Joseph's Hospital with severe cuts on his left elbow was Ralph Mills, 17, of 2511 Quadra.

Police said he was apparently "playing" at 2522 Quadra at 1:35 p.m. when he slipped and rammed his arm through a kitchen window. He was reported in good condition today.

Five hours later Jack Morris, 61, of 740 Caledonia, sustained "several deep cuts" to his right palm and lower right arm when he broke his front door window.

He was treated at Royal Jubilee Hospital and released.

City finance committee will meet Thursday morning.

Paul James O'Brien, 1203 Mainland, was sentenced to a total of nine months imprisonment on two charges when he appeared Monday in Saanich and Esquimalt police courts.

He was given six months on an Esquimalt charge of taking an auto without the owner's consent and three months for "proving by night" in Saanich Sunday at 4:15 a.m.

Police said he took a pickup truck in Esquimalt and was looking for gas in Saanich when he was seen.

Use of a new aluminum screen with a pebbled surface has been introduced into Victoria's summer film festival in Beacon Hill Park, and according to festival chairman Don Buchanan "it improves visibility by two-thirds."

Tonight's program is a special for children, featuring the color movie "The Chairmaker and the Boys," as well as "Land of the Red Goat," a documentary on British Columbia, and "Germany—Key to Europe."

Program starts at 8.

A double break-in overnight netted thieves only a flash light.

Police said the burglars climbed a high wall on Meares Street between W. R. Menzies Ltd., 911 Fort, and Champion's Furniture, 905 Fort, and broke a window in each building.

The flashlight was missing from Menzies and nothing was taken from Champion's.

A group of 109 Victoria veterans and their wives were scheduled to land at Prestwick, Scotland, today to begin a six-week Old Country holiday.

They are flying on a package deal but will be on their own in the U.K. and Continent until their return Sept. 6.

The party is comprised of Royal Canadian Legion members from this area.

Mrs. Marie Petrait was recently elected president of the junior committee of the SPCA. Ruth Green was installed as vice-president while Marcia Barry is secretary and Irene Hilliard is treasurer.

There will be a picnic at Mount Douglas, Aug. 9, for all Juniors.

A "graduation" concert will be presented by 310 high school musicians Thursday at 10:30 a.m. in Victoria High School auditorium.

The students, enrolled in band and orchestra classes at summer school the past month, will demonstrate their musical improvement for friends and relatives during the concert.

More than 3,000 men, women and children attend last Sunday's open-air concert at the Cameron Band Shell in Beacon Hill Park.

Artists were vocalists Ann Harris and Michael Rogers with Al Smith at the piano and Jack Lanigan at the organ.

A native of Victoria who joined the army in 1931 received a double decoration for service last week in Vancouver. Capt. Stan Bischoff, who already holds the Canadian Legion Service Medal for 18 years' service was presented with the Canadian Forces Decoration for an additional 12 years' service by Lt.-Col. R. A. Robitaille. A member of the Royal Canadian Army Medical Corps, Capt. Bischoff is a graduate of Esquimalt High School.

Helicopters are being used in many cases to drop men and supplies in the rough country where fires are giving trouble — one covering 300 acres near Uetsuk Lake, another over 150 acres on the Copper River near Terrace.

Much of the area where 22 fires are now burning has been rainless for at least two weeks.

Locally the fire situation is "nice and quiet," a forestry spokesman said, although a small blaze extinguished Monday on Millstream Road — third in 10 days on a half-mile stretch — causes "some element of doubt" as to accidental or natural origin.

LOCAL MEN TO GRAUER FUNERAL

Several prominent Victorians today went to Vancouver to attend funeral service for B.C. Electric board chairman A. D. (Dad) Grauer.

Among notables were Mayor Percy Scurrell, B.C. Hydro chairman H. L. Keenleyside, realtor R. H. B. Kerr and E. W. Arnott, retired B.C.E. vice-president.

Also attending were all department heads and executive officers of the B.C. Electric's southern Vancouver Island division located here.

Flags were flown at half-mast atop the B.C.E. and B.C. Hydro buildings in Victoria.

Commuters Protest Ferry Cut

Upwards of 100 commuters and residents of Galiano, Mayne and Saturna Islands met on Galiano Island Sunday to protest the proposed closure of the mainland-Gulf Islands ferry service operated by Coast Ferries.

It was thought to be the largest gathering of island residents in 10 years.

The meeting, was attended in a watching brief by Recreation and Conservation Minister Earle Westwood.

Coast Ferries have said they will stop operation of My Island Princess between the mainland and the islands Sept. 11 unless the B.C. government comes to some arrangement with them before Aug. 10.

NEEDED STEPS

The meeting unanimously supported a resolution deploring any cancellation of the service and urging the government to "take the necessary steps to maintain direct communication and transportation equal to or better than the present service."

A spokesman for the commuters said most of the group travelled at weekend from the mainland to their property on the islands via the ferry.

"If they are robbed of their weekends on the islands, their property will suffer accordingly," he said.

The resolution will be sent to the government. Mr. Westwood did not state the government's position on the matter.

Forest Fire Hazard Moving Toward High

Six new forest fires were spotted in the difficult terrain of Prince Rupert fire district today as the hazard crept from "moderate" toward "high" in forestry department rating.

Helicopters are being used in many cases to drop men and supplies in the rough country where fires are giving trouble — one covering 300 acres near Uetsuk Lake, another over 150 acres on the Copper River near Terrace.

Much of the area where 22 fires are now burning has been rainless for at least two weeks.

Chatterton on Hand

Among visitors at the get-together was George Chatterton, MP for Esquimalt-Saanich, who is on record as favoring the project, and representatives of the Victoria Chamber of Commerce, logging and mining industries and the provincial government.

The harbor was a scene of activity when the group inspected the harbor. Hundreds of fishing boats were unloading fish or moving out to fishing grounds in the Juan de Fuca Strait.

One member estimated there was $10,000,000 worth of shipping in the harbor.

S. R. Furney, chairman of the San Juan Harbor breakwater, estimated that it would cost about $8,000,000 to construct a breakwater to provide complete protection to shipping.

1,000 Feet to Start

But, he added, industry would be satisfied with an initial 1,000-foot breakwater which would cost in the neighborhood of $1,000,000.

"It could then gradually be extended over the years," he said.

He said a breakwater would do three things:

Three Advantages

1. It would provide a safe anchorage for the fishing fleet during the winter months.

2. It would enable a mining company to start operating an iron ore mine in the Renfrew district. The harbor at present has no facilities for loading ore onto ships.

3. It would cut down towing costs of logging companies.

Mr. Chatterton noted that the harbor was situated at a strategic location. An indication of its importance was provided by anchorage of seven frigates of the Fourth Canadian Escort Squadron returning from San Francisco.

Pair Jailed For Stealing

Jail sentences were given today in city police court to two men for theft of goods and money under the value of $50.

Keith L. Starling, Mount Newton Cross Road, was committed for three months after reading of a probation report.

He had been remanded from July 26 after pleading guilty to theft of money under $50. Police said Starling asked for $1 worth of gas at the Shellbourne Service Station, 3608 Shellbourne, at 2 a.m. July 12.

When the attendant left him in the office he opened the cigarette vending machine with a key and took $12.50 in coin.

A plea of guilty to a similar charge was also entered July 26 by Robert Jepson, no fixed address, and he was sentenced to two months imprisonment.

The court was told Jepson took a record player from 1135 Fort, where he had been staying, and sold it for $15 June 24.

Lantern's Spin Hangs On a Hair

A revolving Chinese lantern — one of only two in Canada — is a current attraction on Douglas Street.

Known as the Jow Mah (running horse) lantern, it is made to revolve by the heat from two lamps installed in the base.

Tied to the revolving lantern with human hair are cardboard cut-out figures, which move rhythmically as the lantern turns — two boys on a seesaw, several squirrels, a deer, a centipede and a brace of pheasants.

The figures are animated by mechanical manipulation of the human hairs — and human hair is used because it has more elasticity than wire or thread.

The lantern was built here by a visiting Chinese more than 50 years ago, said Mrs. Beattie Tang, in whose store window at 2624 Douglas it is now on display.

Islander To Head Job Office

A native-born Islander who came up through the ranks of laboring, logging, the army and National Employment Service is the new manager of the NES Victoria branch.

He is George Bevis, 43, who assumed his new job this week, replacing James Fox, who was promoted to manage the federal employment office in Winnipeg.

FROM VANCOUVER

Mr. Bevis, who was born in the coal town of Cumberland in 1915, comes to his new post from Vancouver, where he was regional supervisor of special placements, covering veterans, students, vocational trainees and the disabled, a post he took over this year.

Since 1956 he had been travelling supervisor of all NES-Unemployment Insurance Commission offices in B.C. and the Yukon, with headquarters in Vancouver.

SERGEANT-MAJOR

In 1941 he joined the Canadian Scottish Regiment, became a corporal before the unit left Work Point for overseas and rose to sergeant-major before he was sent to the infantry division of Royal Military College, Sandhurst.

Demobilized in 1945, Mr. Bevis took up logging at North West Bay, but within the year joined the Nanaimo office of the commission as an employment supervisor.

Cabinet 'Lashed' On Thetis Park

Game Reservation Removal Opposed

The B.C. cabinet has cancelled a game reserve on part of Thetis Lake watershed despite city council's request that it be enlarged to cover the whole 1,600-acre property.

City parks superintendent W. H. Warren today lashed at the arbitrary provincial action.

He said it would wipe out all legal prohibition of hunting in the 1,600-acre city-owned property which has been kept as a nature park.

"I'm certainly going to ask that it be reconsidered," he said. "It's diametrically opposite to what I recommended. And we weren't even consulted."

The game reserve covered only about half the property and the city asked that it be extended to cover the whole area last January.

"By cancelling the reserve, it means that hunters can go in there now and shoot everything off — and we have lots of wild deer, geese and grouse in there that we've tried to protect."

THIS IS RIDICULOUS

E. H. Lohbrunner, president of the Thetis Park Nature Sanctuary Association said open hunting would endanger people as well as killing off the very animals the association was trying to protect.

"I'm sure our association will protest to the government. This is ridiculous," Mr. Warren pointed out the city was hamstringing in enforcing a hunting ban itself because the property is located in provincial territory.

The cancellation order was passed by the cabinet July 6 but City Hall was not informed until today.

F. R. Butler, mayor of the game branch, said the reserve was being cancelled because it has "been of no benefit as far as game management has been concerned."

Mr. Warren said the government's reasoning appeared unsound.

"I'm also quite surprised at the action they have taken because, besides the animals, a large number of people use the park."

TRAFFIC FINES

In city police court today: Ronald Charles Barry, 47 Howe, $68, and remanded for licence disposition, careless driving.

Roger Anthony Cox, 128 Edwards, $15, no safety chain for trailer and $10, no mudguards on trailer.

AT PAT BAY

Second 'Fly-In' Scheduled

Victoria Flying Services will stage its second annual fly-in and open house at Patricia Bay airport this Sunday.

Officials expect better than 100 planes to fly in from points throughout the Pacific Northwest, providing the weather is good. Visitors will get a chance to look over Victoria.

Victorians, on the other hand, will get a chance to see Saanich peninsula from the air.

Victorians, on the other hand, will get a chance to see Saanich peninsula from the air.

BIG CROWD

Last year, in poor weather, about 45 aircraft participated in the event and the airport bulged with an estimated 3,000 spectators.

On display will be both private and military planes, including a jet trainer, anti-submarine aircraft and helicopters.

The event will be from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m., with breakfast being served for visiting flyers from 8 to noon.

Edmonton Pair

Jaycee Guests For Day on Town

Last week's "Tourists of the Week" were Lyle Horner, a sales analyst from Edmonton, and Mrs. Horner.

They were granted the title by Victoria Junior Chamber of Commerce on Saturday and taken on a tour of Victoria at no cost to themselves.

Accommodation was provided for the couple at the Windsor Motor-Court and Motel. They lunched at the Cock Pheasant, West Saanich Road, toured the Butchart Gardens and visited the Manor House, Olds England Inn and Helmsken House.

After receiving gifts at Victoria Gift House Ltd. and Sidney Reynolds Ltd., Mr. and Mrs. Horner dined and danced at the Empress Hotel.

ASK THE TIMES

Q. Could you please tell me the value of the 250-foot yacht Darguin which visited Victoria recently, how large a crew she carries, and where her owner hails from? S.J.B.

A. Owned by D. K. Ludwig of the United States, the Darguin carries a crew of 38. It was built in Japan, and local marine "authorities" estimate that to duplicate it would cost about $3,000 per foot, or $750,000.

Anyone wishing a question answered is invited to send the question along to The Times, addressed to "Ask the Times" Editor. Questions and answers will be published daily.

All questions should deal with matters of fact and be of general interest. The Times does not undertake to solve company or legal problems. Nor will it attempt to put a value on art objects, stamps or antiques. These should be submitted to a dealer.

Harris, Sonja Strandlie, and Sandra Humber, and Mr. Carey Creek. Other Islanders who signed the register include Miss Cathie Rivers, Sidney; Mr. and Mrs. Basil Cartwright of Ganges; Miss Betty Nimmo, Crofton; and Mr. and Mrs. Thor Christensen of Ladysmith.

August Bride

The engagement is announced of Miss Heather Ann McWilliam of Brentwood Bay, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. McWilliam of Victoria, to William F. Bickford, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Bickford, 7053 West Saanich Road, Brentwood Bay. Wedding will take place in Brentwood United Church on Saturday, August 19, at 3 p.m., with Rev. E. J. Staley officiating. Bridal attendants will be Miss Arden McAlpine, maid of honor, and Mrs. W. Schmidt and Mrs. Ron Bickford, bridesmaids. Ron Bickford will be his brother's best man. Mr. Keith Vickers and Mr. Wayne Hamilton will usher.

Grocery Shower

Hostesses at a grocery shower held recently for August bride-elect, Miss Marion Elliott, were Mrs. G. Murrell and Mrs. D. Mollin. Miss Judy Murrell presented Miss Elliott with a corsage of mauve dahlias and pink. Bride-elect's mother, Mrs. W. A. Elliott, grandmother, Mrs. J. Bianco, and mother of the groom-elect, Mrs. R. Clements, all received bouquets of artificial white roses. Gifts were contained in a pink and white decorated wishing well. Refreshments were served buffet style to the guests. These included Mrs. B. SHOPPING GUIDE

For the Avid Naturalist— Butterflies From Formosa

By PENNY SAVER

No family seems complete without a butterfly collector to its name, at some time or other anyway. And the young boy who builds up his collection with such painstaking care and patience is never really satisfied unless he has some 'real beauts' to show his friends. Now the young naturalist can bring status to his collection with real butterflies from Central America and the Far East that are selling in a Victoria shop.

Dozens of species are available, but standing out in my mind is an iridescent turquoise butterfly from Central America, about five inches across, known among scientific circles as the "Morpho Menellus." Priced at $2 each, this 'gem' comes in a plastic container lined with cotton batting. And haven't we all heard of the "Ornithoptera Kayuga," a native of Formosa? For those of us who don't know it firsthand, this butterfly is an enormous black and yellow species, the coup de grace of every boy's collection. It is selling for $1.95.

If cigaret cases for the purse or pocket are your 'yen', handtooled leather cases from Mexico with tuck-in flap would appeal to you. These come in red-brown, black or natural beige. For regular size cigaret case is priced at $1; for king-size, $1.50.

If you want to know where Penny shopped today, EV 2-3131 is the number.

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Give Yourself a Laugh And Your Face a Lift

Most of the routines and activities which lead to distinction or success, fame, wealth, health or beauty, are boring. Years of hard work and struggle lie behind the loveliest music and art—and many beauty routines lie behind an enchanting woman. The many small things we must do each day in order to be at our best are boring; the exercises we must take, the cream we must apply, the manicure we must have, the hair we must brush, the rest periods we must take, and so on and on. The only way to push yourself through the boredom to accomplish these tasks is to remember the goal ahead.

Facial exercises are a great aid in the battle to remain as youthful as possible. They will not make 50 look like 20, but they do bring you gratifying results. Readers have told me many times that friends no ticed such a difference that they asked such things as "What have you been doing?" "You look younger." I will tell you this! Taking your facial exercises is not as boring as many of the other essential routines because they make you look so funny. Sit in front of a mirror when you give them and you will give yourself a little sideshow each time. Try this one. First apply cold cream. Now chew gum or pretend to do so. As you chew, massage the cream into the skin. Do this very gently. Massage as you chew. This gives the face a double action. Massage from chin to ears, nose to ears, around the eyes, from the brows to the hairline and over the forehead.

Remember that dryness is the greatest skin ager of all. Be generous and faithful with your lubricating creams. You'll amuse yourself and improve your appearance with my facial exercises. Obtain them free by sending a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for leaflet No. 9. Address Josephine Lowman in care of this newspaper.

Pictured above are a charming family who arrived in Victoria recently from Calashield, Scotland. Mr. and Mrs. Peter Wood and their daughter, Hazel. They plan to visit in the city for three months as guests of Mrs. Wood's brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Archibald H. Stevenson, 2660 Kil-larney Road.

Vows Exchanged in Duncan Church

A wedding of interest to many Victorians took place recently in Duncan United Church, when Rev. Bernard Knipe heard the marriage vows of Miss Georgette Edith Scriver and Donald George Grant. Parents of the couple are Mrs. F. W. Scriver of Duncan and the late Mr. Scriver, and Mr. and Mrs. George Grant of Mesachie Lake.

Fresh garden flowers flanked the altar as the lovely bride, walked up the aisle on the arm of her brother, Frederick G. Scriver. For the occasion, Miss Scriver wore a white silk organza, styled with shirred bodice and cap sleeves.

Her jewelry was a seed pearl necklace belonging to her aunt. A dainty headpiece of seed pearls held a fingertip veil of illusion net. Red rosebuds, white stephanotis and trailing ivy made up the bouquet.

Miss Blandine Scriver, sister of the bride, was her only attendant. She chose a gown of pink silk organza complemented with a crescent bou-quet of pink and white carnations.

Robert Vitch was best man, while Ted Forrest, brother-in-law of the groom, ushered. The home of the bride's parents was decorated with a pink and white floral decor for a reception, when S. R. Townsend of Saanich proposed the bridal toast.

Victoria guests attending included Mr. and Mrs. M. Harrop, Mr. and Mrs. S. R. Townsend, Miss Virginia Townsend, Michael Townsend, Mrs. P. Lazar, Mrs. Anna Ley, and the Misses Carol Cambrey, Lois Wolfe, Marjan Smith, Catharine Dawson, Barbara Painter, Harriet Forsberg and Jacqueline McPhillips, and Dennis Revy and Gary Abbott.

For a honeymoon to be spent at Glacier National Park, Mont., the new Mrs. Grant donned a fitted suit of turquoise wool worsted. Pink and white accessories, and a corsage of pink carnations completed her ensemble. She is a 1961 graduate of the Royal Jubilee Hospital School of Nursing.

Upon return, Mr. and Mrs. Grant plan to make their home in Duncan.

Annual Party

Garden of Mr. and Mrs. W. Lloyd Morgan, 729 Pemberton Road, will be the scene on Saturday of the annual garden party of the Victoria Multiple Sclerosis Society.

This will mark the eighth summer that the party has been held in the Morgans garden. Entertainment will be provided and refreshments served. Members and the public are invited to attend the party which begins at 2 p.m.

TODAY'S RECIPE

SPICED APRICOTS

Five lbs. whole apricots, 4 cups sugar, 4 cups water, whole cloves, 3 sticks cinnamon, 3 oranges, sliced.

Prepare a syrup of the sugar and water and boil with cinnamon sticks about 3 minutes. Wash apricots and stick 2 or 3 cloves into each one. Arrange in hot, sterilized jars with orange slices around sides of jar. Remove cinnamon sticks from syrup, then bring it to boil and pour over fruit to within 1/2 inch of top. Seal jars and process in hot water bath, allowing 20 minutes for pints, 25 minutes for quarts.

SEW SIMPLE

By Eunice Farmer

LOTS OF FUN— BUT TROUBLE, TOO

"Dear Eunice: "My children and I have been having lots of fun this summer making fiesta jackets out of sweat shirts. These are the jackets that are worn over bathing suits and serve as lightweight jackets for any occasion.

"Our problem is this: After we have machine stitched the many, many rows of braid and rick-rack on them, the front and lower edges become stretched and ruffled looking. Is there any way to prevent this?" Mrs. J. L. E.

Dear Mrs. J. L. E.: It is very easy to stretch a knit-type fabric without knowing it until it is too late. I would suggest you haste a piece of firm cotton fabric on the wrong side of the front and the lower edges of your jacket. This will keep the jacket from stretching.

You may now machine stitch all the rows of trimming on and if any of the cotton extends beyond the last row of stitching from the wrong side, cut it off.

For answers to your sewing problems write Eunice Farmer, care of this newspaper.

Newest Styles Go Body-Conscious

PARIS (Reuters)—Hubert Givenchy endorses a silhouette fitted closer to the body, according to buyers who saw his winter collection in Paris today.

Givenchy and Christobal Balenciaga, whose showing will be Wednesday, present their collections for buyers after most other houses and do not admit fashion critics until several weeks later.

Last spring both indicated the fitted line which Givenchy has now evolved.

The body-conscious look emerged as the leading idea in all Paris collections last week.

Givenchy retains well-shaped, knee-length skirts gathered above the hips. He marks the natural waist with wide belts in day wear, but introduces a high waistline for most formal fashions.

ACCENT ON PANELS

Another theme in day wear is the panelled treatment. Apron panels evolve from the front of the skirt and continue the line of the jacket or bodice marked by double-breasted buttoning.

One skirt panel is made entirely of black tulle—a recurrent theme throughout the collection.

Hostess fashions, always a news item at Givenchy, are shown with long torso sweater tops and bell-bottomed trousers made of lace or sheer fabrics. The trousers are sliced from below the knee and worn with high-heeled shoes.

One example in tulle is paired with a black tulle sweater top with jet embroidery.

Another of Givenchy's tricks with fur is dyeing the natural white markings of skunk in vivid shades of pink and yellow. This is used for hats and coat linings.

Another is the yellow silk evening coat lined entirely with curly black ostrich feathers.

White Organza Forms Bridal Gown

Full-skirted gowns of French blue silk organza were worn by bridal attendants as an attractive contrast to the formal, floor-length gown of white organza chosen by Miss Marie Agnes Whan for her marriage to Const. Norman R. Harvey-McKean.

The bride entered Duncan United Church on the arm of her father. Her gown, styled with bateau neckline and lily-point sleeves, swept into a cathedral-length train, over which misted a tulle veil inset with satin.

She wore a pearl drop necklace and earrings, gift of the groom, and carried a cascading bouquet of roses highlighted with gold leaves and stephanotis.

Parents of the bride are Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Whan of Duncan, and parents of the groom, Mr. and Mrs. James Harvey of Gull Lake, Sask.

Maid of honor was Miss Vivian Robertson of Langley, B.C., while Miss Lynne Cornish of Hammond, B.C., Miss Darlene Harvey of Saskatoon, Sask., and Miss Heather Hay of Gull Lake, Sask., were bridesmaids.

They wore pearl drop necklaces, gifts of the bride, and carried crescent bouquets of miniature gladioli and carnations.

Little Miss Cheryl Jones, niece of the bride, and Miss Debbie Hochstetter were charming flower girls in white silk organza frocks highlighted with red satin sashes. They wore white organza bonnets, decorated with red flowers, and carried nosegays of red roses and white carnations.

Const. Steve Holotuk was best man, while Cpl. Max Hochstetter, Const. Jim Wilson and Const. Jerry O'Neill ushered. Rev. Bernard Knipe officiated. Mrs. Louise Sharp was soloist and Fred Young played the organ.

The Moose Home in Duncan was setting for a reception when the newlyweds cut a three-tier wedding cake made by the groom's mother and decorated by Mrs. Jeanne Douglas of Gull Lake, Sask. Eben Sweet, uncle of the bride, proposed a toast to her happiness.

For a wedding trip south of the border, the new Mrs. Harvey-McKean chose an attractive blue suit accented with white accessories and a white orchid corsage. Const. and Mrs. Harvey-McKean plan to make their home at 1021 Lee Street, Duncan.

Mr. and Mrs. Laurence Forbes, 624 Esquimalt Road, announce the engagement of their elder daughter, Delphine Cecelia Edith, to John Marshall, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. P. Marshall of Prince Albert, Sask. The wedding will take place in St. Aidan's United Church at 7:30 p.m., August 12. (Ryan Photos.)

Clubwomen's News

Colored Films—Members of Victoria Chapter No. 25, Women of the Moose, spent an enjoyable evening last week when Mrs. K. Eastwood showed colored slides of her trip to England and the continent. Films of the recent Women of the Moose B.C. Conference were also shown. Senior regent, Mrs. C. Giles presided at the meeting, during which candidate Mrs. M. Ryder was enrolled. Refreshments were served with a birthday cake for July members.

DEAR ABBY

John Law Vs. Joe Doakes

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: This is not a personal problem, but a public one. What do you think should be done about the present trend of make-up and attire for our adolescent girls? I refer to girls from 14 to 18, who come from good families, but go around looking like streetwalkers. They load on the make-up and wear their hair in sophisticated styles to make themselves look older. And their clothes are disgustingly tight and short. Or they are half-naked. Don't you think the law should step in, since this kind of appearance appeals to the baser instincts of man and increases the crime rate? MRS. CITIZEN.

DEAR CITIZEN: Unless these girls sneak out of their homes in such get-ups, the blame should be placed squarely on the shoulders of their mothers who, in their well-meaning eagerness to make their daughters "popular" and "happy," encourage them to appear 20 when they are only 15. This is a matter for parental discipline, not law.

DEAR ABBY: This may seem crazy to you, but it hurts me very much. My husband keeps telling me about the many love affairs he had with other girls before he met me. I think the past should be forgotten, but I would like to teach him a lesson. I don't have any past to talk about, but do you think if I made up a few stories as good as his it would shut him up? NO PAST.

DEAR NO: Men who were really successful with the ladies do not feel the need to boast about it. Tell your husband you would rather not hear about his escapades, and don't make up any whoopsters as toppers.

DEAR ABBY: This afternoon I attended a bridal shower. Each guest brought a gift for the bride. The afternoon was spent in playing bridge. I won the prize, which was a lovely pair of tea towels. Naturally, I was delighted.

This evening I received telephone calls from three women who had attended the same shower. They informed me that I had committed a breach of etiquette in taking home my prize. They said it was the "custom" to give the bride all prizes won at a bridal shower. Is this true? I have never heard of anything so ridiculous. FLABBERGASTED.

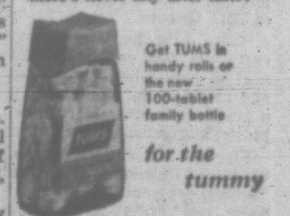

DEAR FLABBERGASTED: In a few isolated communities this is indeed the "custom." But it doesn't make much sense to me either.

Everybody has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply, write to Abby in care of this paper. Enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

For Abby's booklet, "How To Have a Lovely Wedding," send 50c to Abby, 205 Park Road, Burlingame, Calif.

B.C. UNION MEN BEAT BILL 42

'Isn't That Amazing... A Convention On, Too!'

1,703 ATTEND CONVENTION

OTTAWA (CP) — There were 1,703 voting delegates registered at the New Party founding convention today as the five-day convention swung into its second day.

Voting delegates included 714 representing the CCF party, 650 from trade unions and the remainder from New Party clubs and the provincial and federal executives.

RCAF Denies Substandard Drugs Bought

OTTAWA (CP) — The air force today described as "absolutely false" a claim that it has purchased substandard drugs for the Comox RCAF base on Vancouver Island.

It was commenting on a statement made Monday by the British Columbia Pharmaceutical Association at a one-day hearing in Vancouver of the restrictive trade practices commission which is studying the manufacture, distribution and sale of drugs in Canada.

Douglas Denholm, registrar of the association, read at the hearing 1956 correspondence between the association and FO V. F. Bamber, pharmacist at the RCAF base at Comox. FO Bamber listed more than half a page of drugs he alleged were substandard.

The air force said that FO Bamber's statements are "absolutely false."

It said the air force purchases drugs by their generic names in large lots. By buying in large volume, major savings were made.

However, the air force said that all drugs it purchases are subject to rigid inspection by the tri-service medical establishment.

OTTAWA — British Columbia trade union delegates to the New Party founding convention have thumbed their noses at Premier Bennett's law prohibiting unions from spending dues money for political purposes.

The effect of the law would have been to stop any B.C. union delegates from attending the convention, unless they wanted to pay their own expenses.

Union members decided they had to hold a conference in Ottawa, by the sheerest coincidence at the same time as the New Party convention. The subject of the conference: Premier Bennett's laws governing the spending of union dues for political purposes.

The meeting was held Sunday, in the Chateau Laurier. Officers of the Canadian Labor Congress attended, and B.C.'s Bill 42 got a working over. The conference decided to attack the law from every front, including a publicity campaign throughout B.C.

In the course of the conference, the union men discovered, by another incredible coincidence, that none of them was able to get aircraft or rail reservations for the trip home.

At this point, one of the CLC officials remembered that a political convention, the New Party convention, to be exact, was going to be held in Ottawa this week.

He suggested that since the trade unionists were in Ottawa, and couldn't get home, they might be interested in dropping down to the Coliseum.

To a man they agreed it was a good idea.

An International Woodworkers of America delegate disclosed still another coincidence: Every one of the union members attending the conference on Bill 42 was also the man picked by his local to attend the New Party convention, that is, if they had been able to attend the convention.

'Federal' Canada Supported by NP

OTTAWA (CP) — The New Party founding convention gave roaring approval today to a Quebec-sponsored motion to emphasize the federal character of Canada.

The motion, moved by Michel Chartrand, leader of the Social Democratic Party—the Quebec wing of the CCF—inspired the constitution committee to replace the word "national" with "federal" wherever it appeared in the New Party constitution.

Under it, he said, national conventions would be known as federal conventions—giving in the French language a truer interpretation of the nature of Canada's constitutional setup.

The motion provoked heated argument, most of it on Mr. Chartrand's side, and brought CCF National Leader Hazen Argue, one of the contenders for New Party leadership, to his feet.

Mr. Argue appealed for unanimous support for Mr. Chartrand, and for the first time since the convention opened Monday, cheers as well as applause greeted the CCF leader's speech.

K Reported Shy of War For Berlin

WASHINGTON (CP) — Well-informed sources say Soviet Premier Khrushchev has indicated to U.S. disarmament chief John J. McCloy that Russia wants to avoid a military showdown over Berlin.

Khrushchev favored new negotiations, possibly leading to summit talks, following a series of diplomatic exchanges, informants said.

After reading a secret summary of the Khrushchev-McCloy talks which took place at the premier's Black Sea resort villa last week, the informants expressed confidence an East-West military explosion can be avoided.

"It looks as though we will be able to negotiate our way out of the Berlin crisis without a military showdown," they said. "Our own feelings are that Mr. Khrushchev no more wants a military confrontation than we do."

McCloy reported back to President Kennedy Monday night, delivering a personal message from the Soviet leader.

The McCloy talks with Khrushchev and with Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Valerian Zorin at Moscow also appear to have improved slightly the prospects for resumption of disarmament negotiations.

American informants said Russian-American discussions on how to get negotiations started again likely will be reopened in New York in a few weeks after the United States consults with other Western powers.

Bid to Force UN Session

UNITED NATIONS (AP) — Asian and African delegates worked today to get the backing of 50 United Nations members for an emergency session of the General Assembly Thursday to take up Tunisia's charge of French aggression at Bizerte.

Kenneth K. S. Dadzie of Ghana, chairman of the group seeking the session, said he had collected signatures of 21 delegations on a request to Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjöld and hoped to get the other 29 by Wednesday. Hammarskjöld must call the session if a majority of the 59 UN members request it.

OL' VIC SAYS:

Creve Coeur, Ill. (UPI) — More than 10,000 residents of four Illinois towns fled their homes before dawn today to escape deadly ammonia fumes pouring from a river barge.

Twenty persons, most of them firemen who tried to stop the flow of gas from a ruptured pipeline aboard the barge, were hospitalized. Four others were treated and released from hospitals in nearby Peoria.

Roads leading from Creve Coeur, Bartonville, North Pekin and Marquette Heights were jammed with cars in the pre-dawn darkness.

Police, civil defence workers and volunteers went through the towns house by house to rouse sleeping families and warn them to flee. Sirens wailed and radio stations broadcast evacuation orders.

Half of Creve Coeur's 5,500 population and practically all of the 4,000 Bartonville and 2,000 North Pekin residents fled their homes. Nearly the entire 2,500 population of Marquette Heights joined the exodus, although town officials admitted afterward they had intended to evacuate only a few residents.

Police, firemen and volunteers, with wet handkerchiefs and towels wrapped across their faces, patrolled deserted streets and roads to prevent looting in a 32-square-mile area for three to five hours until residents returned.

At the barge, on the Illinois River, power to the ammonia pump was shut off. But the gas continued to leak out through the compressor. Most of the ammonia in a 300,000-pound tank escaped and was carried southeastward on a seven-mile-an-hour breeze.

Cars lined country roads around the area. Motorists sat on hoods and fenders listening to reports on car radios. Other cars filled supermarket parking lots in nearby towns. Some cars were reported to have driven as far as Galesburg, 55 miles away.

Mayor Chester Polson of Bartonville said his town was emptied in about 45 minutes. "There was virtually nobody left in town," he said.

Renfrew Pushed as Deep-Sea Port

By HUMPHREY DAVY

Leaders of industry and business stepped up their campaign for construction of a breakwater across the entrance to historic San Juan Harbor at a rally Monday at Port Renfrew.

The group, about 30 in number, pointed out the urgent need for a breakwater to protect the fishing fleet from storms and to permit the development of the deepsea port, some 60 miles west of Victoria.

Possibility of early federal government support for the project was also discussed by the group when they toured the harbor aboard a fish packer and inspected its facilities.

Industry which has been campaigning for years for the breakwater hopes Ottawa will undertake the project within the next two years.

"Although Ottawa has made no commitments, I feel sure a breakwater will go in with time," he said.

Harry Hobson, divisional manager of Cowichan-Port Renfrew district, B.C. Forest Products, said a breakwater would provide a safe anchorage for logging booms.

"A protected harbor would also permit loading logs into barges," he said.

Morris Menzies, assistant western superintendent for Noranda Exploration Co. Ltd., saw the unprotected sea port as hampering mining operations in the Renfrew district.

"Our company can't start operating its iron ore mine until we have a breakwater," he said. "We can't build wharves and instal harbor facilities until there is protection from winter storms."

He said once the breakwater was built his company would start an initial $4,000,000 development for ships to take up to 20,000 tons of iron ore.

Tugs Need Shelter

The iron ore would be shipped to Japan.

James Foster, representing the B.C. Towboat Association, said at present there is no protection for tugs and fishing boats along a 60-mile section of the west coast.

"We need a breakwater as a refuge from storms," he said. "As things are here right now, we're better off fighting out a storm in the Strait than coming into San Juan Harbor."

HARD-WORKING—chairman of Port Renfrew breakwater committee is Stuart Furney of B.C. Packers Ltd.

Chatterton on Hand

Among visitors at the get-together was George Chatterton, MP for Esquimalt-Saanich, who is on record as favoring the project, and representatives of the Victoria Chamber of Commerce, logging and mining industries and the provincial government.

The harbor was a beehive activity when the group inspected the harbor. Hundreds of fishing boats were unloading fish or moving out to fishing grounds in the Juan de Fuca Strait.

One member estimated there was $10,000,000 worth of shipping in the harbor.

S. R. Furney, chairman of the San Juan Harbor breakwater, estimated that it would cost about $8,000,000 to construct a breakwater to provide complete protection to shipping.

1,000 Feet to Start

But he added, industry would be satisfied with an initial 1,000-foot breakwater which would cost in the neighborhood of $1,000,000.

"It could then gradually be extended over the years," he said.

He said a breakwater would do three things:

Three Advantages

1. It would provide a safe anchorage for the fishing fleet during the winter months.

2. It would enable a mining company to start operating an iron ore mine in the Renfrew district. The harbor at present has no facilities for loading ore onto ships.

3. It would cut down towing costs of logging companies.

Mr. Chatterton noted that the harbor was situated at a strategic location. An indication of its importance was provided by anchorage of seven frigates of the Fourth Canadian Escort Squadron returning from San Francisco.

Pair Jailed For Stealing

Jail sentences were given two men in city police court today for theft of goods and money under the value of $50.

Keith L. Starling, Mount Newton Cross Road, was committed for three months after reading of a probation report.

He had been remanded from July 26 after pleading guilty to theft of money under $50.

Police said Starling asked for $1 worth of gas at the Shellbourne Service Station, 3608 Shelbourne, at 2 a.m. July 12.

When the attendant left him in the office he opened the cigarette vending machine with a key and took $12.50 in coin.

A plea of guilty to a similar charge was also entered July 26 by Robert Jepson, no fixed address, and he was sentenced to two months imprisonment.

The court was told Jepson took a record player from 1125 Fort, where he had been staying, and sold it for $15 June 24.

Lantern's Spin Hangs On a Hair

A revolving Chinese lantern—one of only two in Canada—is a current attraction on Douglas Street.

Known as the Jow Mah (running horse) lantern, it is made to revolve by the heat from two lamps installed in the base.

Tied to the revolving lantern with human hair are cardboard cut-out figures which move rhythmically as the lantern turns—two boys on a seesaw, several squirrels, a deer, a centipede and a brace of pheasants.

The figures are animated by mechanical manipulation of the human hairs—and human hair is used because it has more elasticity than wire or thread.

"The lantern was built here by a visiting Chinese more than 50 years ago," said Mrs. Bessie Tang, in whose store window at 2624 Douglas it is now on display.

Cabinet 'Lashed' On Thetis Park

Game Reservation Removal Opposed

The B.C. cabinet has cancelled a game reserve on part of Thetis Lake watershed despite city council's request that it be enlarged to cover the whole 1,600-acre property.

City parks superintendent W. H. Warren today lashed at the arbitrary provincial action.

He said it would wipe out all legal prohibition of hunting in the 1,600-acre city-owned property which has been kept as a nature park.

"I'm certainly going to ask that it be reconsidered," he said. "It's diametrically opposite to what I recommended. And we haven't even consulted."

The game reserve covered only about half the property and the city asked that it be extended to cover the whole area last January.

"By cancelling the reserve, it means that hunters can go in there now and shoot everything off and we have lots of wild deer, geese and grouse in there that we've tried to protect."

THIS IS RIDICULOUS

E. H. Lohrbrunner, president of the Thetis Park Nature Sanctuary Association said open hunting would endanger people as well as killing off the very animals the association was trying to protect.

"I'm sure our association will protest to the government. This is ridiculous."

Mr. Warren pointed out the city was hamstringing in enforcing a hunting ban itself because the property is located in provincial territory.

The cancellation order was passed by the cabinet July 6 but City Hall was not informed until today.

F. R. Butler, director of the game branch, said the reserve was being cancelled because it has "been of no benefit as far as game management has been concerned."

Mr. Warren said the government's reasoning appeared unsound.

"I'm also quite surprised at the action they have taken because, besides the animals, a large number of people use the park."

TRAFFIC FINES

In city police court today: Ronald Charles Barry, 47 Howe, $50, and remanded for licence disposition, careless driving.

Roger Anthony Cox, 128 Edwards, $15, no safety chain for trailer and $10, no mudguards on trailer.

Jaycee Guests

For Day on Town

Last week's "Tourists of the Week" were Lyle Horner, a sales analyst from Edmonton, and Mrs. Horner.

They were granted the title by Victoria Junior Chamber of Commerce on Saturday and taken on a tour of Victoria at no cost to themselves.

Accommodation was provided for the couple at the Windsor Motor Court and Motel. They lunched at the Cock Pheasant, West Saanich Road, toured the Butchart Gardens and visited the Manor House, Old England Inn and Helmcken House.

After receiving gifts at Victoria Gift House Ltd. and Sidney Reynolds Ltd., Mr. and Mrs. Horner dined and danced at the Empress Hotel.

Q. Could you please tell me the value of the 250-foot yacht Darginn which visited Victoria recently, how large a crew she carries, and where her owner hails from? S.J.B.

A. Owned by D. K. Ludwig of the United States, the Darginn carries a crew of 36. It was built in Japan, and local marine authorities estimate that to duplicate it would cost about $3,000 per foot, or $750,000.

Anyone wishing a question answered is invited to send the question along to The Times, addressed to "Ask the Times" Editor. Questions and answers will be published daily.

PROTECTION from winter storms would be provided by proposed breakwater at Port San Juan, which would start across harbor from point-at-left

... HERE AND THERE ... With NORMAN CRIBBENS

After listening to debates in the B.C. Legislature he decided to become a psychologist.

That, in brief, is the story of ex-page boy Howard Lim, who used to run messages for our talkative MLAs back in 1951 and 1952.

"For a time, I thought I'd like to be a politician," said Lim. "Then I decided to study psychology instead."

Now 20, Lim is in the fourth year of an honors course in psychology at Victoria College. But he revisited the Buildings recently and was welcomed back by one of his old bosses—Deputy Sergeant-at-Arms Harry Hunt.

"I always said Howard was the smallest, youngest and smartest boy we ever had," proclaimed Mr. Hunt.

Is it illegal to consume liquor on a B.C. government campus?

A Seattle visitor raised this fine point of law today and took it up with the RCMP. The answer is "No" providing the grog is consumed in a covered tent in which the camper is spending the night.

"A man's tent is his home as long as he lives in it," an RCMP officer said.

Latest convert to Victoria—Father James Heade of St. James Catholic Church, McMinnville, Oregon.

The slower tempo is sheer delight—so are all the lovely flowers and gardens. I'll be back."

That old-fashioned pastime of dropping bottles in the sea has popped up again. Mr. and Mrs. Robert Horowitz of Crestwell, Oregon, tossed an empty cork into the ocean near Seattle last September and promptly forgot all about it.

Just recently they received a note from Mr. and Mrs. P. E. Fane, of Victoria. They had picked up the bottle and the note inside of the Dallas Road Beach.

"We have been corresponding ever since," said Mrs. Horowitz.

It seems Victoria had a whale of a carnival back in August 1913.

Wally Fletcher, historian at Craigflower Manor, dug up a lapel button near the old house last week and below the encrusted dirt was the inscription: Victoria Carnival Week, Aug. 14, 1913.

Our files show that this was a bang-up water carnival, complete with yachts and power boats, put on as a tourist attraction—and opened by Lieutenant-Governor Thomas Paterson.

Prison Term On Breaking, Entry Charge

A prison sentence of 2½ years was given today in city police court to one of two men involved in breaking and entering.

After a three-day trial, Vernon Reid, 1213 Johnson, was found guilty of entering the McLennan, McFeely & Prior warehouse at 2025 Government, June 21 at about 2 a.m. with intent to commit theft.

Also found guilty of the offence but remanded for a probation report on sentence was John Alexander Devine, 305 Huntington Place.

PREVIOUS RECORD

A previous record of sentence for theft, forgery and breaking and entering totaling nearly 15 years since 1941 was read after Reid's conviction.

"You have been in jail for most of your life, haven't you?" said Magistrate William Ostler to the 39-year-old man, before sentencing him to two and one-half years in the B.C. penitentiary.

Since Devine's record included only one conviction, for theft of goods under the value of $50, and that was over five years ago, the magistrate ordered a probation report.

The two were arrested by city police inside the business premises after a watchman, George Wetherell, 1283 Derby, turned in the alarm at 1.03 a.m.

Although evidence presented was circumstantial, Mr. Ostler, in his summation, said the cumulative proven facts indicated guilt and nothing else.

LOCAL MEN TO GRAUER FUNERAL

Several prominent Victorians today went to Vancouver to attend funeral service for B.C. Electric board chairman A. D. (Dal) Grauer.

Among notables were Mayor Percy Scurrell, B.C. Hydro chairman H. L. Kennedy, realtor R. H. B. Ker and E. W. Arnott, retired B.C.E. vice-president.

Also attending were all department heads and executive officers of the B.C. Electric's southern Vancouver Island division located here.

Flags were flown at half-mast atop the B.C.E. and B.C. Hydro buildings in Victoria.

Commuters Protest Ferry Cut

Upwards of 100 commuters and residents of Galiano, Mayne and Saturnia Islands met on Galiano Island Sunday to protest the proposed closure of the mainland-Gulf Islands ferry service operated by Coast Ferries.

It was thought to be the largest gathering of island residents in 10 years.

The meeting was attended in a watching-brief by Recreation and Conservation Minister Earle Westwood.

Coast Ferries have said they will stop operation of Mv. Island Princess between the mainland and the islands Sept. 11 unless the B.C. government comes to some arrangement with them before Aug. 10.

NEEDED STEPS

The meeting unanimously supported a resolution depicting any cancellation of the service and urging the government to "take the necessary steps to maintain direct communication and transportation equal to or better than the present service."

A spokesman for the commuters said most of the group travelled at weekend from the mainland to their property on the islands via the ferry.

"If they are robbed of their weekends on the islands, their property will suffer accordingly," he said.

The resolution will be sent to the government. Mr. Westwood did not state the government's position on the matter.

Forest Fire Hazard Moving Toward High

Six new forest fires were spotted in the difficult terrain of Prince Rupert fire district today as the hazard crept from "moderate" toward "high" in forestry department rating.

Helicopters are being used in many cases to drop men and supplies in the rough country where fires are giving trouble—one covering 300 acres near Uetsuk Lake, another over 150 acres on the Copper River near Terrace.

Much of the area where 22 fires are now burning, has been rainless for at least two weeks.

Locally the fire situation is "nice and quiet," a forestry spokesman said, although a small blaze extinguished Monday on Millstream Road—third in 10 days on a half-mile stretch—causes "some element of doubt" as to accidental or natural origin.

ESQUIMALT NAVAL SHIP MOVEMENTS

Assiniboine and Margaree return 4 p.m. Wednesday. Sussexvale, Ste. Therese, Stettler, Antigonish, Beacon Hill, New Glasgow and Jonquiere return 2 p.m. Thursday. Miramichi out for the day.

TOPICS OF THE DAY

Similar domestic accidents Monday sent two men to hospital with badly lacerated arms.

Admitted to St. Joseph's Hospital with severe cuts on his left elbow was Ralph Mills, 17, of 2511 Quadra.

Police said he was apparently "playing" at 2522 Quadra at 1.35 p.m. when he slipped and rammed his arm through a kitchen window. He was reported in good condition today.

Five hours later Jack Morris, 61, of 740 Caledonia, sustained "several deep cuts" to his right palm and lower right arm when he broke his front door window.

He was treated at Royal Jubilee Hospital and released.

City finance committee will meet Thursday morning.

Paul James Osline, 1203 Blanshard, was sentenced to a total of nine months imprisonment on two charges when he appeared Monday in Saanich and Esquimalt police courts.

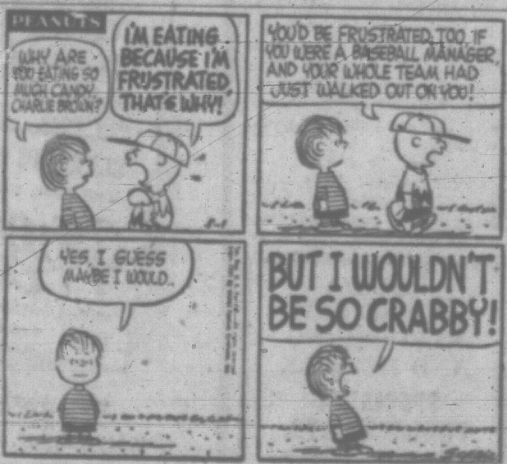

He was given six months on an Esquimalt charge of taking an auto without the owner's consent and three months for "proving by night" in Saanich Sunday at 4.15 a.m.

Police said he took a pickup truck in Esquimalt and was looking for gas in Saanich when he was seen.

Use of a new aluminum screen with a pebbled surface has been introduced into Victoria's summer film festival in Beacon Hill Park, and according to festival chairman Don Buchanan "it improves visibility by two-thirds."

Tonights program is a special for children, featuring the color movie "The Chairmaker and the Boys," as well as "Land of the Red Goat," a documentary on British Columbia and "Germany—Key to Europe."

Program starts at 8.

RCAF Denies Substandard Drugs Bought

OTTAWA (CP)—The air force today described as "absolutely false" a claim that it has purchased substandard drugs for the Comox RCAF base on Vancouver Island.

It was commenting on a statement made Monday by the British Columbia Pharmaceutical Association at a one-day hearing in Vancouver of the restrictive trade practices commission which is studying the manufacture, distribution and sale of drugs in Canada.

Gaglardi Ignores Law—Truckers

Highways Minister P. A. Gaglardi today was accused by the Construction Equipment Owners Association of B.C. of interfering with law enforcement and acting "above the law."

In a letter to Premier Bennett, association president William G. McKinnon charged that irregularities in highways department contracts have cost the provincial treasury millions of dollars in lost revenue.

Mr. McKinnon said for three years the association has persistently complained to Mr. Gaglardi about tax, licence, gas and weight violations on construction jobs.

Nothing has been done, said Mr. McKinnon.

JAPAN WON'T HARBOR U.S. ATOMIC SUBS

TOKYO (AP)—Japan has rejected a United States request for opening Japanese ports to U.S. atomic submarines because of Japanese fears of radioactivity, Defence Director Senuke Fujieda disclosed today.

Fujieda told a parliamentary committee the proposal was made by State Secretary Dean Rusk to Foreign Minister Zenro Kozaka last June when the latter accompanied Premier Hayato Ikeda to Washington.

Fujieda also reaffirmed the government's avowed policy of refusing introduction of American nuclear weapons into Japan and of not arming Japan's own defence forces with such weapons.

RASMINSKY: 'Cabinet Above Bank'

OTTAWA (CP)—Louis Rasminsky, newly appointed governor of the Bank of Canada, said today that if there is serious conflict between the bank and the government over monetary policy the government's will should prevail.

Mr. Rasminsky said in a statement that the bank has the responsibility for monetary policy. But if the government disapproved of the monetary policy being carried out by the bank "it has the right and the responsibility to direct the bank as to the policy which the bank is to carry out."

Bid to Force UN Session

UNITED NATIONS (AP)—Asian and African delegates worked today to get the backing of 50 United Nations members for an emergency session of the General Assembly Thursday to take up Tunisia's charge of French aggression at Bizerte.

Kenneth K. S. Daddie of Ghana, chairman of the group seeking the session, said he had collected signatures of 21 delegations on a request to Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjöld and hoped to get the other 29 by Wednesday. Hammarskjöld must call the session if a majority of the 99 UN members request it.

MUST CONSULT

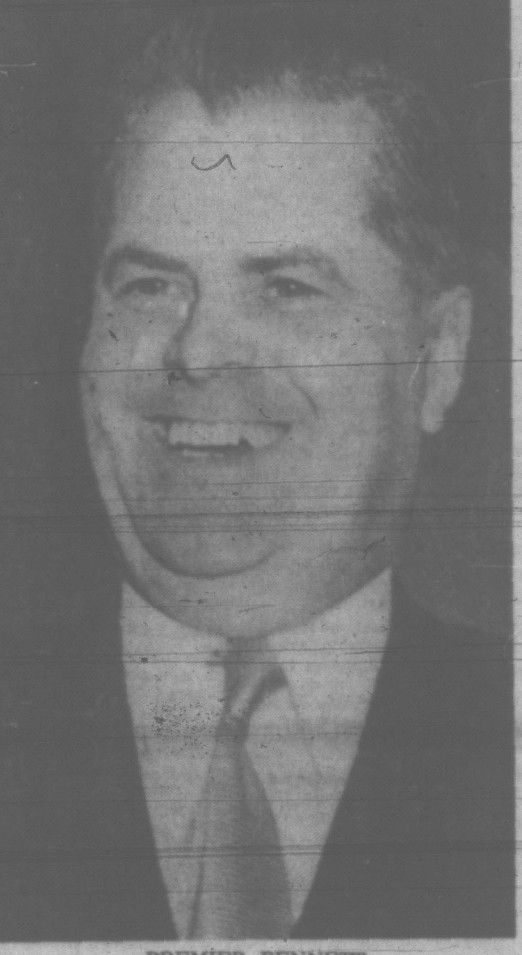

Mr. Fleming stressed the importance of regular and close consultation between the governor and the finance minister and added that such consultation "is already taking place."

The two statements obviously were designed to clear the air following the sizzling controversy that ended with the resignation of James E. Coyne as governor after an unsuccessful government attempt to have Parliament fire him.

He also provided a clear indication that both the government and Mr. Rasminsky want legislation to re-define the relationship between the central bank and the cabinet—if only to avoid another controversy in the future.

A CONVENTION, TOO

B.C. Unionists Beat Bill 42

By TOM GOULD
(Times Ottawa Bureau)

OTTAWA — British Columbia trade union delegates to the New Party founding convention have thumbed their noses at Premier Bennett's law prohibiting unions from spending dues money for political purposes.

The effect of the law would have been to stop any B.C. union delegates from attending the convention, unless they wanted to pay their own expenses.

Union members decided they had to hold a conference in Ottawa, by the sheerest coincidence at the same time as the New Party convention. The subject of the conference: Premier Bennett's laws governing the spending of union dues for political purposes.

The meeting was held Sunday, in the Chateau Laurier. Officers of the Canadian Labor Congress attended, and B.C.'s Bill 42 got a working over. The conference decided to attack the law from every front, including a publicity campaign throughout B.C.

In the course of the conference, the union men discovered, by another incredible coincidence, that none of them was able to get aircraft or rail reservations for the trip home.

At this point, one of the CLC officials remembered that a political convention, the New Party convention, to be exact, was going to be held in Ottawa this week.

He suggested that since the trade unionists were in Ottawa, and couldn't get home, they might be interested in dropping down to the Coliseum.

To a man they agreed it was a good idea.

An International Woodworkers of America delegate disclosed still another coincidence: Every one of the union members attending the conference on Bill 42 was also the man picked by his local to attend the New Party convention; that is, if they had been able to attend the convention.

OTTAWA (CP)—There were 1,703 voting delegates registered at the New Party founding convention today as the five-day convention swung into its second day.

Bennett Reveals Plan at Session

Premier Bennett this afternoon made his move for the government to take over the giant hydro-electric utility system of the B.C. Electric Co. and turn it to public ownership.

The action — exclusively forecast by the Times Ottawa correspondent Tom Gould on July 5 — came at the opening of the special session of the legislature at 3 p.m.

Also confirming another phase of the Times forecast, the Premier announced his intention to take over the Peace River Power Development Co. of the Wenner-Gren interests.

The announcement came in the form of bills introduced in the House immediately after Lieutenant-Governor George Pearkes had made the shortest throne speech on record, merely outlining five pieces of legislation planned for the short session.

Under Premier Bennett's plan, the B.C. Electric will take over the Wenner-Gren interests and then the joint venture will operate as a Crown corporation with the same authority as the publicly-owned B.C. Power Commission.

The Premier's plan, in effect, places all major electric utilities of the province under government ownership and control. It was already planned that the huge Columbia River development will be carried out by a public corporation.

$38 To Be Paid Per Share

The bill sets a figure of $38 per share for the common shares of B.C. Power Corporation, which is the holding company for B.C. Electric. (The stock closed at $34.75 on the Toronto market today.)

However the price to be paid B.C. Power is subject to a deduction for the paid-up capital value of former B.C. Electric stock.

The plan provides that the newly acquired B.C. Electric Co. will take over all assets of the Wenner-Gren Peace River scheme at a price to be determined by C. J. Ferber, the comptroller-general of the province. B.C. Electric already owns one-fifth of the shares of Peace River power.

The takeover is effective as from 3 p.m. today, subject to approval of the bill by the legislature, which is expected automatically.

BCE Directors 'Fired' Now

All present directors of the B.C. Electric are immediately "fired" from their posts. The cabinet will appoint new directors immediately.

In retaining the new public company as a separate entity it will keep all its former borrowing powers, and any new ones will be subject to government approval.

The B.C. Energy Board report on Columbia and Peace River power development was also tabled in the House this afternoon.

Its main finding is that without export of power the simultaneous development of the Columbia and Peace projects is not economically feasible.

★ ★ ★ Throne Speech

Following is the brief text of the Speech From the Throne read at today's opening of a special session of the B.C. Legislature:

Mr. Speaker and members of this Legislative Assembly: I welcome you to this special session of the 26th Parliament of British Columbia.

You will be asked by my government to consider the following specific matters:

A bill respecting the Motor Vehicle Act.

A bill concerning federal-provincial tax-sharing arrangements.

A bill concerning the Milk Industry Act.

A bill respecting allowances paid to members of the Legislative Assembly.

A bill concerning the development of electric power resources.

Mr. Speaker and members, I now leave you with the prayer that divine guidance will attend your deliberations in the service of our people.

Shooting Charge In Saanich

A city man was to appear today in Saanich police court charged with shooting with intent to wound.

Charged with the offence was Edward D. Miller, 645 Dunedin, who appeared briefly Monday and was remanded to today for plea.

Police said a man forced his way into the home of Mrs. Elsie Scheske, 333 Ker, Sunday at about 5 a.m. by knocking on the front door and then threatening her with a rifle.

Her son Reginald Raymond Scheske, who has been living at the house with his wife, was awakened and appeared in a doorway.

TWO SHOTS

His mother told him to phone police and, as he started to do so two shots were fired into the door jamb sending wood splinters into his chest, abdomen and arm.

His mother struggled with the intruder for the 30-30 Winchester rifle but failed and the man left.

The son was treated and released from St. Joseph's Hospital.

LOCAL BRIEFS

Eighteen hundred lines were in the water and only 64 of them brought in fish, but for junior anglers in the Victoria Playgroun Fishing Derby the day was a roaring success.

Best of the haul was a two pound, 11 ounce coho salmon reeled in by John Upton at about 3 p.m. when the derby was at its height. He gets a new bicycle for his effort.

Rock cod, red snappers and other people's lines made up most of the rest of the day's catch as the youngsters stood elbow to elbow along the length of the breakwater.

Victoria Gladiolus Society will hold its 15th annual show in Christ Church Memorial Hall next Friday from 2 to 9.30 p.m., and on Saturday from 10 to 9.30 p.m.

Gordon Shepherd, laundry manager of St. Joseph's Hospital, is one of 20 professional laundries who attended a management conference of the American Institute of Laundering in Joliet, Ill., last week.

Purpose of the conference was to give laundry owners, managers and key employees an opportunity to study the latest technical and practical information gathered by the institute.

Negroes, Whites Join Under New Africa Party

SALISBURY (Reuters) — Former Premier Garfield Todd Monday announced the formation of the "New Africa Party" with the aim of forming a joint Negro-white government and abolishing racial discrimination.

The party also seeks to broaden the franchise so all inhabitants of this self-governing British colony can take part in choosing a government.

Todd was prime minister from 1953 to 1958.

Todd said the new party's policy was "definitely that Africans (Negroes), as the majority of the population, should predominate on the voters' roll."

DEADLY AMMONIA GAS EMPTIES FOUR TOWNS

CREVE COEUR, Ill. (UPI) — More than 10,000 residents of four Illinois towns fled their homes before dawn today to escape deadly ammonia fumes pouring from a river barge.

Twenty persons, most of them firemen who tried to stop the flow of gas from a ruptured pipeline aboard the barge, were hospitalized. Four others were treated and released from hospitals in nearby Peoria.

Roads leading from Creve Coeur, Bartonville, North Pekin and Marquette Heights were jammed with cars in the pre-dawn darkness.

Police, civil defence workers and volunteers went through the towns house by house to rouse sleeping families and warn them to flee. Sirens wailed and radio stations broadcast evacuation orders.

Half of Creve Coeur's 5,500 population and practically all of the 8,000 Bartonville and 2,000 North Pekin residents fled their homes. Nearly the entire 2,500 population of Marquette Heights joined the exodus, although town officials admitted afterward they had intended to evacuate only a few residents.

Police, firemen and volunteers, with wet handkerchiefs and towels wrapped across their faces, patrolled deserted streets and roads to prevent looting in a 12-square-mile area for three to five hours until residents returned.

TRAVEL CURB THREATENED

BERLIN (AP) — The East German Communists threatened today to restrict travel between East and West Germany, claiming a polio epidemic in West Germany is spreading the disease across the Iron Curtain.

K Reported Shy of War For Berlin

WASHINGTON (CP) — Well-informed sources say Soviet Premier Khrushchev has indicated to U.S. disarmament chief John J. McCloy that Russia wants to avoid a military showdown over Berlin.

Khrushchev favored new negotiations, possibly leading to summit talks, following a series of diplomatic exchanges, informants said.

After reading a secret summary of the Khrushchev-McCloy talks which took place at the premier's Black Sea resort villa last week, the informants expressed confidence an East-West military explosion can be avoided.

"It looks as though we will be able to negotiate our way out of the Berlin crisis without a military showdown," they said. "Our own feelings are that Mr. Khrushchev no more wants a military confrontation than we do."

McCloy reported back to President Kennedy Monday night, delivering a personal message from the Soviet leader.

The McCloy talks with Khrushchev and with Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Valerian Zorin at Moscow also appear to have improved slightly the prospects for resumption of disarmament negotiations.

American informants said Russian-American discussions on how to get negotiations started again likely will be reopened in New York in a few weeks after the United States consults with other Western powers.

NEW VENTURE OPENS TODAY

Empress Manager Defends Low Rates at Motor Lodge

Empress Hotel's 100-room motor lodge annex opened today without fanfare as the hotel manager replied to an "unfair" charge by local motel operators.

The staid Victorian-style Canadian Pacific Railway hotel is believed to be the first Canadian hotel to modify its operation to include budget-priced accommodation for the motoring public.

It is a modern trend among several large American hotels, manager Cyril Chapman said.

"We have a continuing request for this type of economy service, a lower rate than that established for the Empress Hotel."

"It is our desire to offer the type of service that can fit that particular type of pocket-book," the manager said.

MOTOR COURTS

He was replying indirectly to a charge levelled by Victoria and Vicinity Motor Courts Association, which wrote to him last week.

The hotel's decision to advertise its new motor lodge rates on a large neon sign, "would be disastrous to the tourist business in general and would result in serious loss of prestige to the hotel itself for all time," the association said.

Empress Motor Lodge occupies the north wing of the hotel, fronting on Humboldt Street, with access to Douglas and Government by means of a driveway passing underneath the wing. The sign is planned for Douglas Street.

The hotel manager argued in support of the new venture by pointing out that for years "Canadian Pacific has spent many thousands of dollars in publicizing Victoria."

"We have evidence the vast majority of tourists to Victoria have come from the United States."

'Victimizing' Property Deals Hit

VANCOUVER (CP) — A government should not benefit at the expense of the private property owner in expropriation proceedings, the B.C. Power Commission said Monday.

But neither should the crown be "victimized" in the purchase of property, the commission said. The Cline royal commission on expropriations.

The commission urged that disputes over the value of property be settled by a judge rather than a board of arbitration.

The brief opposed any limit on what the government pays for property when the price is significantly higher than the market price and when the land is purchased just before expropriation started.

"Adoption of such a principle would destroy the whole concept of ownership of private property and undermine one's faith in the democratic way of life."
